Ouster Proceedings Started Against Miss Whitney

REMOVAL IS SOUGHT BY GRAND JURY

District Attorney Orders Recorder Before Court on December 26

REMOVAL FROM office of County Recorder Justice Whitney was asked today in an accusation returned to District Attorney W. F. Menton by the 32 felony grand jury which, several weeks ago, indicted her of 32 felony counts alleging misappropriating county funds.

The accusation, signed by W. W. Hay, foreman of the grand jury and handed, as required by law, to District Attorney Menton is based on 11 specifications alleging willful and corrupt misconduct in office.

Immediately after receiving the accusation from Foreman Hay, District Attorney Menton issued an order, ordering Miss Whitney to appear before Presiding Judge G. K. Scofield, in department 3, superior court, December 26, to answer the accusation.

According to the law Miss Whitney has 10 days in which to answer the accusation and, at the time of entering her plea may demand either a jury trial or hearing before the court. After entering the plea the case becomes one of civil procedure.

Civil Action The accusation and ouster proceeding were started under section 758, of the civil code and does not dispose of the 32-count indictment. The charges covered in the indictment are all felonies and will be prosecuted as criminal cases after the ouster proceeding is disposed of.

The specification on which the accusation is based set out several instances where settlement of her accounts with the county treasurer was delayed because of shortage of funds in her charge and that later collections were used to make settlement.

It also accused Miss Whitney of borrowing $1000 on one occasion from a private individual to make her monthly settlement, $700 on another occasion from employees in her office and $900 from an unknown person to make settlement of her October, 1935, account on November 18.

The first specification of the accusation alleges that, in September, 1935, Miss Whitney collected and failed to turn over to the county treasurer the sum of $3506, until October 26. Between October 1 and the date of settlement she collected $650 as fees for October recordings and used this amount to make her September settlement, it is charged.

More Allegations In August she used the same procedure, according to the accusation and did not deposit

Cuba Quiet As Mendieta Quits Post

President Resigns Following Dispute Over Election Regulations

HAVANA, Dec. 11.—Cuba's troubled political situation was freshly confused today when Carlos Mendieta resigned as provisional president because of a dispute regarding regulations for electing a constitutional president.

The cabinet accepted the resignation and named Jose A. Barnet y Vinagres, 71, secretary of state, a career diplomat without political affiliation, to succeed Mendieta.

The cabinet formally offered Barnet its resignation. He refused it. Arrangements were made for him to take the oath of office at noon today and for Mendieta to remain in the presidential palace until then.

The capital was quiet and conditions were normal. Havanans did not learn of the resignation, which Mendieta gave at 1:07 a. m., until this morning.

Political Crisis As to the political situation, it was neither quiet nor normal and weeks of confusion were foreseen before there could be another real effort to end a period of political chaos that has endured ever since the dictator, Gerardo Machado, was overthrown in August, 1933.

The present crisis has been brewing for months. Mendieta, with the loyal support of the real power of the country—Col. Fulgencio Batista, chief of staff of the army—tried to arrange an election for December 15. An electoral law was passed. Squabbles broke out.

A coalition party was formed from elements of the Nationalist Union, Anti-Cruz Liberals, and Republicans. It was regarded as the official government party. Miguel Manuel Gomez was its presidential candidate and it was believed sure of victory. Gen. Mario Menocal, candidate of the National Democratic party; Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, Centrist candidate, and Carlos de la Cruz, regular Liberal candidate, held that the new party was illegally constituted, particularly because some electors of their parties were named as electors for the coalitionists.

Set Election Date President Harold W. Dodds, of Princeton university, was invited to settle the difficulty. He went to Havana and arranged a system under which electors should decide what party they would adhere to. Dr. Dodds set January 15 as the electoral date.

Candidates denounced this program too. Menocal withdrew from the race and other candidates prepared to withdraw, leaving the field to Gomez. Menocal demanded that Mendieta resign, and after a joint meeting of the cabinet and council of state that lasted until the middle of this morning Mendieta decided to do so, hoping to restore peace.

GLENN MARTIN CLIPPER SHIP TO LAND HERE

DEFINITE assurance that Glenn Martin's Manila Clipper will land at Newport bay was given in a telegram received today by Howard I. Wood, secretary of the Santa Ana chamber of commerce.

Glenn Martin, himself, sent the telegram, stating he was "having the Clipper stop on Newport bay," and promising to send further details soon. The $400,000 Manila Clipper is one of three planes made by Martin for the Pan American Airways.

The other two are the China Clipper and Philippine Clipper, all three of them to operate passenger and mail service between the United States and the Orient.

Martin, Santa Ana's contribution to aviation's hall of fame, declared in his telegram, addressed to the chamber of commerce:

"Telegram received. Appreciate interest. Having the Clipper stop on Newport bay. Am working on suggestion. Reporting later."

The telegram came as an answer to invitations sent by Santa Ana and Newport Beach chambers of commerce, to come out "and bring your Clipper with you."

The planes, 3200 horsepower, have a speed of 175 miles per hour, 43-passenger capacity, and a flying range of 4000 miles.

Peace Plans Presented To Il Duce

Mussolini is Expected to Give Favorable Reply Within 24 Hours

ROME, Dec. 11.—The French and British ambassadors delivered to Premier Benito Mussolini late today the text of their joint proposal for a peaceful settlement of the Ethiopian war.

Mussolini was expected within 24 hours to reply favorably, accepting the proposal at least as a basis for negotiations.

Sir Eric Drummond, British ambassador, and Count Charles de Chambrun, French ambassador, saw Mussolini separately. The texts were identical except one in French and the other in English.

Mussolini thanked the ambassadors and assured them he would give the proposal the closest attention.

FAVORABLE REPLY IS EXPECTED TONIGHT ROME, Dec. 11.—(UP)—Premier Benito Mussolini is expected to give tonight a tentative favorable reply to British-French proposals for settlement of the Italian-Ethiopian crisis.

Count Charles de Chambrun, French ambassador, and Sir Eric Drummond, British ambassador, received official copies of the plan from Paris and London this morning.

They consulted at the French embassy and agreed that De Chambrun should present this copy to Mussolini and Drummond should present the British copy immediately afterward.

Optimism swept the city after months of black pessimism. Everybody believed that Mussolini was sure to accept the proposals as a basis for discussion.

In order to receive the French and British drafts, Mussolini agreed to violate his new quitting time.

DIRECTOR OF WPA ADVISES VOTERS HERE

If Flood Bonds Not Voted Next Week Money Will Be Re-allocated

IN TELEGRAMS sent today to the Citizens Water Committee and the Associated Water Users of Orange County, respective leaders of campaigns for and against the $6,574,000 flood bond proposal, State WPA Director Frank Y. McLaughlin today advised both sides that unless the flood bonds are voted December 19, the $6,574,000 grant being held for Orange county will be distributed immediately to other projects.

McLaughlin's messages confirmed statements he made yesterday over the telephone to Supervisor W. C. Jerome, who, at McLaughlin's request, wired McLaughlin a formal query on the matter of holding the grant after December 20.

The statement from McLaughlin cleared his position on the matter, and reveals that, although he can, if he wishes, hold the grant earmarked for Orange county until next July 1, he does not intend to do so.

Word had been received Monday from the office of Harry Hopkins, national relief administrator, that the grant could be held for Orange county until the end of the fiscal year, if McLaughlin saw fit to do so.

Sends Telegram At McLaughlin's telephoned request, Supervisor Jerome yesterday sent him the following wire to McLaughlin:

"Will you please wire the Citizens Flood Control and Water Conservation Committee and the Associated Water Users of Orange County the answer to the following questions:

"What will be your disposition of the $6,574,000 at present allocated to the Orange county project, if the bonds to match same are not voted on December 19?"

"Did you set a definite date of December 20 as the last possible date you would hold this money for our project?"

"Did you not state this definitely to the board of supervisors?"

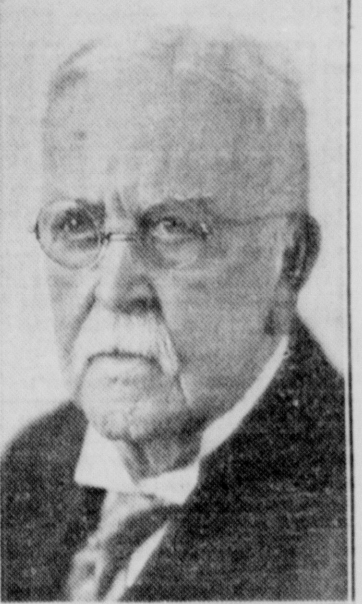

Henry C. Akin, Former Imperial Potentate Of Shrine, Passes On

DEATH CAME peacefully and as a friend today to one of Santa Ana's most widely known citizens, Henry C. Akin, whose quiet passing at his home, 422 South Birch street, closed a long and colorful career.

Colonel Akin, as he was known to everyone, although his military training with the Kansas State militia during Civil War days was that of lieutenant, was in his 92nd year. He was born August 19, 1843 in Sparta, Penn., the son of Andrew and Marian Akin. His wife, the late Mrs. Henry C. Akin, also well known in this city, died at the Methodist hospital, Los Angeles, May 6, 1929, a few days after the couple had celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary in Santa Ana.

Among his many and varied interests, Colonel Akin had made Masonry paramount and was famous all over the United States as the oldest living past imperial potentate of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine. He had affiliated with the Masonic order in Council Grove, Kans., in 1867. In his progress through the successive degrees, to that of the 33rd degree Scottish Rites, which he achieved in Omaha in 1889, he held various important state and national offices. These included presidency of Nebraska Veterans' association, of which at the time of his death, he was the oldest living member.

His election as imperial potentate of the A. A. O. N. M. S., the highest office in the Shrine, was at the San Francisco conclave in June, 1902. He served until the succeeding conclave in Saratoga Springs, N. Y., in July of the following year. Masons all over the country knew "Uncle Henry."

VOTERS WILL GO TO POLLS ON THURSDAY

Seventy-one Polling Places Will Open at 6 a. m. and Close at 7 p. m.

VOTERS and taxpayers of Santa Ana high school district vote on the polls tomorrow and state their preference between two methods of completing the high school building program—either by bonds spread over a period of years, with federal assistance, or by direct tax, over a short period.

The $323,000 bond issue submitted to the voters tomorrow for building three high school units and a new auditorium at Julia Lathrop offers the voters their choice, according to the board of education which has stated that the unsafe high school buildings must be replaced, one way or the other.

Rejection of the bond issue tomorrow would be taken by the school board as an indication that the voters prefer the method of direct tax, it is said.

The high school and Lathrop proposals will be submitted on separate ballots, so that the voters may pass upon them separately. $222,000 is proposed for the high school and $100,000 for the Lathrop auditorium.

High WPA sources have assured the board that a federal grant of 45 per cent will be forthcoming if the bonds are voted, in which event only 55 per cent of the bonds, or $177,650. The government grant would be $145,350.

On the eve of the election today, it appeared highly probable that the bonds will carry, as there has been city wide organization of the campaign by Parent-Teacher organizations and other interests.

Regular election precincts will be used in the election, and voters were instructed to go to their customary polling places, as there is no consolidation of precincts in this election, as was the case in the September school election. There are 71 precincts in Santa Ana and polling places in Paulino, Diamond and Greenville districts, outside of the city but included in the high school district.

The $223,000 high school issue would provide for construction of Blocks B, C and E in a five-unit group. Blocks A and D being already completed or under construction. The $100,000 Lathrop issue would provide an auditorium at that junior high school, which is now without one.

School board members declare that the high school buildings, at least, will be built, one way or another, as the board has the responsibility of providing safe and healthy quarters for students. Whether the present damaged buildings, which have been evacuated, nor the temporary tent erected in the emergency, will be used any longer than necessary, they assert.

The polls will be open tomorrow from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m.

DEFENSE OPENS HOEPEL CASE IN WASHINGTON

BULLETIN WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(UP)—The defense rested in the Hoepfel conspiracy trial today after a dramatic and categorical denial by Rep. John H. Hoepfel of California, that he or his son had conspired to sell a West Point appointment for $1,000.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(UP)—The government today rested its case against Rep. John H. Hoepfel, D. Cal., and his son Charles J. Hoepfel, on trial in District Supreme Court charged with conspiring to sell a West Point nomination.

Immediately after the government concluded with its evidence defense attorney Samuel King, brother of Sen. William H. King, D. Utah, began arguing a motion for a directed verdict. The motion was denied and the defense will start its case today.

He claimed "there is not a scintilla of evidence to prove that the defendants entered into the conspiracy which is charged here."

He was followed by another de-

STANDARD OIL SUITS DEMAND H. B. ROYALTIES

WATCHDOGS of the state's tideland oil pool at Huntington Beach, who have been protesting against draining of the pool by slant-drilling wells of private interests on the shore, today were astounded when the Standard Oil company filed injunction suits in superior court to compel the other slant drillers to pay the Standard for the oil they have taken.

Seven such actions brought by the Standard and the Huntington Beach company, owner of the shore strip under lease to the Standard, ask for an injunction against operation of certain whipstock wells further landward, and seek an accounting for all oil and gas produced from these wells. They also ask damages for trespass upon their property.

The various whipstock wells it has been previously represented at various times, pass through the Standard Oil company lease and tap the tideland pool under the ocean. The Standard Oil company and Huntington Beach company now claim, in the suits just filed,

PEOPLE RESPOND QUICKLY TO APPEAL BY SALVATION ARMY

DESponding quickly to an appeal for voluntary subscriptions to create a fund with which to purchase Christmas baskets for deserving needy families of Santa Ana, five donations had been received by noon today following the opening of the annual drive last night.

These donations, amounting to $18, brought the total contributions in the first half-day of the drive up to $63. It is but a small portion of the amount needed, however, to assure 400 desperately poor families that they will have a real Christmas dinner for their children on the day of all days for youngsters—Christmas Day.

Part of the money which will be raised will be used to stage an old-fashioned Christmas tree party for 500 children, when Santa Claus will distribute gifts, nuts, candy and fruit to the eager children who otherwise would experience little of the joys which should come to childhood on St. Nicholas Day.

These families and children must not be disappointed, and it is for that reason that The Register and the Salvation Army join forces again this year to give generous citizens of Santa Ana and vicinity an opportunity to contribute to this worthwhile program. Applications for Christmas baskets and for help on Christmas are pouring in at the Salvation Army, and nearly 300 pleas have come in so far.

The Salvation Army will run a clearing house for agencies, churches and individuals to avoid duplication of distributing Christmas baskets and toys for the children, which also will be gratefully accepted. Toys and foodstuffs may be left at the Salvation Army on Sycamore between Second and Third streets.

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 11.—(UP)—State Controller Ray L. Riley believed today that a special session of the legislature is inevitable, although Gov. Frank P. Merriam said he was "not convinced" that such action was necessary.

Conferring with San Francisco and Los Angeles bankers yesterday, the governor assured them the state's credit was sound and that, in his opinion, state warrants could be sold legally after the first of the year, a question that had been raised by financial experts.

REPORT CABINET RESIGNS. CAIRO, Egypt, Dec. 11.—Unconfirmed reports circulated in Cairo today that the cabinet had resigned.

SECURITY FOR ALL IS URGED IN BURKE ADDRESS

Declaring that all people are seeking security as their primary aim in life, and that those who do achieve security should work for all other people to secure it, J. F. Burke addressed a capacity audience at the Frances Willard Junior High School auditorium last night, at a meeting which was held to honor him for his work for all liberal causes in the country.

The chairman, Rev. Donald F. Gaylord, of Brea, declared the meeting was a necessary complement to the recognition banquet held Monday night, for at the banquet, the people talked to Burke, and Burke didn't have very much opportunity to talk to them, whereas he declared the second meeting gave the people a chance to hear Burke.

Burke first gave evidence of the pressure which is upon a liberal editor as he endeavors to conduct a newspaper. He received an advertisement from a certain firm which was placed in the state, and upon investigation by the advertising representatives of the paper, it was found the reason was "because the firm had received unfavorable publicity" in The Register.

Bribery Attempted

Burke disclosed an unpublished fact in connection with the investigation of the CWA in Orange county almost two years ago. He said The Register was endeavoring to give the facts concerning the salaries paid by the institution, and was denied the right to the records. The Register attempted to get permission from the state officials of the CWA to investigate the records, but in the meantime was receiving the information from another source, and printing it in The Register.

The local CWA officials desired to learn where The Register was procuring this information. Burke declared that a member of the staff one morning, told him that he had been offered a suit of clothes, if he would tell a representative of the CWA where The Register was receiving the information. Burke apologized to the audience because, he said, upon the plea of many friends of the local officials, The Register did not print the story of the attempt to find the source of the information through his method.

"All of us are fighting for security," he said. "We all desire to get relief from the strain upon us as we look toward the future." He gave illustrations of being thrown out of work in his young manhood and declared he had been seeking security since. He declared the reason so many men go into government jobs, at less pay, is because the government is considered permanent, and a man can have security by working for it.

He declared that the labor unions, the teachers, the Townsend group, the Epics, and all the other groups were seeking security, and stressed the idea that as one group achieves it, the members of that group should strive to see that all the rest of the people obtain it.

Production Capacity Studies
Burke quoted from the two studies made of the capacity of the United States to produce and said that the first, the Brookings Institute report, said that on the basis of 1929, under our present system, $20,000,000,000 more in production could have been produced in this country than was produced. The second report, based on a study of government engineers, entitled "The Chart of Plenty," revealed that the production of the factory and farm, not limited by the people's capacity to buy, as was the Brookings report, but by the total production, could have been $45,000,000,000 more, or 50 per cent more than was produced in 1929. The amount, per family, would be $4460 per year based on these figures. He said these figures disclose that security is possible, and that no man can be secure until every man and woman are secure. Those who achieve security, he stated, should consider that their energy was released in order for them to work for all people to be secure.

At the close of the meeting, a resolution was unanimously adopted, encouraging Burke to avail himself of some medium whereby he could reach the citizens who have looked to him for the interpretation of events.

Vladimir Leneki of Costa Mesa, accompanied by Miss Evelyn Huntington, opened the meeting with two violin solos.

Defense lawyer, Maj. Gen. Samuel T. Ansell, former Judge Advocate General of the U. S. Army, who spoke briefly in support of the claim that the government had failed to prove that the Hoepfels plotted to sell the appointment to James W. Ives, Baltimore athlete, for $1,000.

The last witness for the prosecution was Elliott Cheston, of Baltimore, who began to tell of conversations he had in 1934 with Charles Hoepfel about getting an appointment to the military academy. He was cut off by the objections of defense lawyers. Justice O'Donoghue upheld the objections.

The government's case rested mainly on the testimony of Ives, who told of visiting the congressman to resign his appointment because of its "illegality."

Ives testified that when he asked Rep. Hoepfel for a "legal appointment," the congressman replied: "You don't wish to carry out your agreement so you can't have the appointment. You are right back where you started a week ago."

BOARD NAMES APPRAISERS OF RESERVOIR SITE

BY GEORGE HART

In a session marked by frequent disagreement between Supervisor N. E. West and the rest of the board, after the board had blocked allocation of unbudgeted funds for West's project of extending South Main street, in his district, the supervisors yesterday handled a large business calendar, including selection of a board of appraisers for the Prado and other dam sites, contingent upon passage of the $6,520,000 flood bond issue.

F. E. McCarter, of Santa Ana; Lloyd Hulbert, of Fullerton; and J. K. McDonald, of Huntington Beach, were named to the board of appraisers, their appointment to be confirmed if the bond issue carries.

Their appraisals, in such event, will be used by the county in purchasing reservoir sites. The supervisors have expressed their purpose of effecting a saving in the $4,000,000 allocated in the bond proposal for the right-of-ways and sites, the figure mentioned having been based upon 1929 valuations.

Opposes Purchase

West did not oppose the appointment, but he did vote against the $275 purchase of a strip of ground, containing 11 walnut trees, from property along the new Imperial highway extension, at the west border of the county.

"The whole Imperial highway project is a promotion scheme, and a waste of money," West declared contemptuously, to the horror of Supervisor Leroy Lyon, who is head of the Imperial Highway association.

At first it was thought that West's vote had blocked the purchase, it being believed that four votes were needed for passage, and Supervisor Willard Smith being absent. But an examination of the law disclosed that only three votes were needed, so the purchase was ratified.

When the board authorized Supervisor W. C. Jerome, of Santa Ana, to attend the meetings of the tax committee of the State Supervisors association in San Francisco, Jerome being chairman of this committee, which will discuss ways of heading off proposed amendments to abolish the state sales and income taxes, West voted yes, "on condition that they save more taxes than they spend holding the meetings." This brought no retort from his colleagues.

The committee will meet in San Francisco on the next two week-ends. Members of the committee, besides Jerome, are Supervisors Collins, of Fresno county; Grier, San Bernardino county; Stinegar, San Joaquin county; Fields, Butte county; Elsworth, Tulare county; Toy and McAtee, San Francisco county; Manager Deterding, Sacramento county; Russell, of Yolo county; Quinn of Los Angeles county.

Warrants Authorized

The board authorized warrants in the amounts of $14,908 in favor of P. A. Stanton and $2634 in favor of Mrs. Stanton; also a warrant for $2732 for the Southern Pacific Railroad company, to be deposited with the county clerk as bond for acquiring immediate possession of property condemned for the West Anaheim Storm drain project.

West again voted no, despite Supervisor Lyon's explanation that the county would not be bound by these amounts at the trial when the compensation to the property owners was fixed, and that the figures merely were arbitrarily placed midway between the appraisals of the county and the property owners. West maintained that "it would create a public prejudice by placing the amount at three times the value of the property."

His opposition failed to block the move, and the board then proceeded to formally award the storm drain project to Gogo and Rados, Los Angeles contractors, who were low bidders with a figure of $118,500.

The condemnation action concerns a tract of 85 acres owned by the Stantons, wanted for sinking and spreading grounds, and an easement for the storm drain along the S. P. right-of-way, in the Anaheim area.

F. P. Jayne, head of the woman's work division of WPA, was the next to run into a West negative, when he asked if the board would appropriate about $400 dollars needed to supply 200 chairs, which are lacking in accommodating a group of 550 women who were put to work today on sewing projects.

"Don't you think it would be better to put men to work instead of these women?" West wanted to know.

Jayne sharply replied that nearly all of the women were heads of families, and that if they didn't get these jobs there would be a lot of people for the county to take care of.

Mitchell Objects

Chairman Mitchell added to West's objection his own, saying that there was no money budgeted for the purpose, and the county didn't have it to appropriate.

Jayne then mentioned that the county had appropriated $6700 to the sewing projects, although not for chairs, and that if the supervisors were willing, he would transfer some of this money to the use desired. The supervisors were willing, so the problem was solved.

Chairman Mitchell and Clerk J. M. Backs were authorized to sign a project for furnishing ten adults to supervise National Youth Administration projects in Orange county, with the proviso that the county would assume no financial obligation.

The Blue Wing Shooting Club was granted a license under the new gun club ordinance, the seventh club to apply for such license.

After two attempts by WPA representatives to gain the board's approval of an appropriation for the South Main street extension, for which the federal government has allocated $144,000, West gained consent to a special meeting next Monday afternoon to consider the matter further.

The board balked because it doubted the correctness of estimates which required $12,000 of county money, and also because even the $12,000 had not yet been provided in the budget.

Harry Parker, of WPA, appeared before the board first, and urged the $12,000 appropriation.

Estimates Cut

Highway Superintendent Nat Neff had originally estimated the project cost at $311,000, but this estimate was revised downward to $188,000, after it reached PWA, as there was no provision in the budget for the original estimate.

Neff, however, presented figures to the board yesterday bearing out the probable accuracy of his original estimate. He showed that the Imperial Highway contract, in northwestern Orange county, having specifications almost the same as the South Main street project, had been awarded by the state at a figure of $322,995.

He pointed out that, therefore, even if the county had the $12,000 available, it was probable that the county would subsequently find itself involved in a great deal more expense than the PWA estimate showed.

It was after Chairman Mitchell expressed himself as opposed to making the $12,000 appropriation from unbudgeted funds, and other members agreed, that proposals from other supervisors began to find West opposing them.

West ended the session by refusing to join a private conference of the board in the committee room, and sat alone in the board chamber.

Just before the board adjourned, Dan Mulherson, of WPA, came before the supervisors and urged them to reconsider their decision on South Main street, in the interest of employment. He said that PWA is getting short of projects sufficient to keep men employed, and the Batavia street project completion is about to throw 350 men out of jobs.

"Oh," said West, "we have a big reserve in our welfare fund. We'll feed them out of that."

Ignoring West's remark, Supervisor Jerome suggested that the bond bonds carry, there will be jobs for all, and if there are too many other projects, the county will not have enough men for the flood project.

Mulherson pointed out that it would be several months, at the earliest, before the flood project would be providing employment in quantity.

West's motion to adjourn to next Monday, carried.

ETHIOPIA TO REJECT NEW PEACE PROPOSAL

PARIS, Dec. 11.—(UP)—Ethiopia will reject any plan for settlement of the conflict with Italy which does not take into account her territorial and political integrity, the Ethiopian legation announced today.

An official communique from the legation said Ethiopia refused to accept any plan "which directly or indirectly accords encouragement or a premium to Italy."

The official text of the communique said:

"Ethiopia has been a victim of unjustified aggression which has been solemnly condemned unanimously by the league council and assembly."

"In these conditions, the Ethiopian government is firmly resolved not to consider any proposal which, in direct or indirect form, would accord encouragement or a premium to take into account the fundamental principles affirmed by the council of the league and its committees, as well as the assembly, especially the principle of the territorial and political integrity of Ethiopia."

"The Ethiopian government is resolved to consider no proposal which would tend to exercise pressure on a weak nation to bring it under the domination of a powerful government, which has not ceased to affirm that it would assure the triumph of its ambitions by force, with, without or against the league."

A foreign office spokesman said he did not consider the Ethiopian communique an official refusal to negotiate on the basis of the Franco-British plan, pointing out that the communique was issued before disclosure of official details of the plan in Addis Ababa.

$2826.50, collected during that month until she had collected $700 for September business.

In July, 1935, there was a total of $2831.75 due the county which was delayed until she had collected $600 in fees for August which were used in making the delayed settlement, it is further alleged.

Relating to the grounds for asking ouster proceedings the accusation declared that Miss Whitney had "wilfully and corruptly deceived and misled the county treasurer and county auditor and defrauded said county of Orange by then and there representing that all of the said sum turned over was moneys and fees collected for recording papers during the previous month."

"Ethiopia has been a victim of unjustified aggression which has been solemnly condemned unanimously by the league council and assembly."

"In these conditions, the Ethiopian government is firmly resolved not to consider any proposal which, in direct or indirect form, would accord encouragement or a premium to take into account the fundamental principles affirmed by the council of the league and its committees, as well as the assembly, especially the principle of the territorial and political integrity of Ethiopia."

"The Ethiopian government is resolved to consider no proposal which would tend to exercise pressure on a weak nation to bring it under the domination of a powerful government, which has not ceased to affirm that it would assure the triumph of its ambitions by force, with, without or against the league."

A foreign office spokesman said he did not consider the Ethiopian communique an official refusal to negotiate on the basis of the Franco-British plan, pointing out that the communique was issued before disclosure of official details of the plan in Addis Ababa.

More Straight Facts On Water Bond Issue

Since writing my statement, which appears on the back page of the first section of this paper, I have learned that Mr. Frank Y. McLaughlin, the head of the welfare department in this state, was called up by members of the board of supervisors for help in meeting the contents of the letter which came from Mr. Harry Hopkins' office at Washington, stating that the federal government had no dead-line on this money that has been "earmarked" for Orange county.

With this statement, in the light of what had been said in the campaign, it left somebody "caught with the goods on, in broad daylight." Something had to be done.

The one man that could help them out was Frank Y. McLaughlin. He was the appointee of Mr. H. H. Cotton, who is mutually desperate, for some reason, to get the bonds over.

This same man, when telephoned to by one of the opponents of the bonds in the last campaign, when Mr. McLaughlin thought he was talking to the representative of the supervisors, said: "You know, I will do anything for you fellows."

So the call was made upon Mr. McLaughlin.

I understand that he has answered it by declaring he will send them a wire or a communication of some kind, stating that he will take the money away from Orange county, or see that it is taken away, or blame it on to somebody for taking it away, if the people do not vote for the bonds that provide for nearly $2,000,000 more than every one knows is necessary for the program.

In other words, the head of the welfare department will be made to say, if the people of Orange county do not prostitute their own judgment and vote for millions more to be handed over to officials than they know they need, the state representative, not the federal government, will withdraw this support.

I stated in my editorial, written before this came out, that this thing they have done with Mr. McLaughlin was the only way out.

This is the high-handed and dictatorial manner in which this program is being offered.

There is more to be brought out in connection with this episode than has yet appeared. It will be brought out in due time.

In the meantime, the people can see the combination,—Cotton, McLaughlin, the board of supervisors and their advising engineers, entering into a combination, for some inscrutable reason, to keep the total amount up to such an outrageous figure that it is impossible for men, who have the welfare of the county at heart, to vote for it.

I predict now that when the representatives of Mr. Hopkins' office and the federal government fully understand the situation, Orange county will be taken care of and be permitted to have a sane and economic program and still have her share of federal funds to carry on.

This will be done, in spite of the organized political forces which have their personal reasons to desire to force this on the people.

DR. MABEE IS INSTALLED BY KIWANIS CLUB

Sounding the keynote for the coming year in Kiwanis, Dr. Melbourne Mabee, now president, stressed the importance of citizenship in his address accepting the office, last night, at the annual installation and "Ladies' Night" meeting held at the Santa Ana Country club.

He said the principal objective of the organization would center around citizenship and he quoted the statement of a national officer of Kiwanis who said recently: "Unless Kiwanis takes a more active part in the conduct of national life it had better fold its tent and quietly steal away."

In his talk he pointed out that today the nation is at the crossroads and faces the question: Shall we retain our government as the faithful servant of the people or shall we become its slaves?

Two mighty forces are struggling for supremacy, he said, the one emphasizing the liberty of the individual above every other factor—the other represented by certain forces that have emerged in Europe during the past 18 years, in which the individual is smothered by the autocracy of state.

George Wells, lieutenant-governor of this Kiwanis district, served as installing officer seating, in addition to Dr. Mabee, as president, Carter Lane, vice president; R. B. Newcomb, treasurer; Lyle Mitchell, Dr. Fred Earel, William Iverson and Wilbur Barr, as directors.

During the business meeting Loren Moore, retiring president, was presented a desk set from club members, in recognition of his services during the past year.

During the dinner, which preceded the business meeting and installation of officers, music was provided by the Lyric Trio, including the Misses Audrey and Beatrice Gramas and Anna May Archer, all of Santa Ana.

A touch of comedy was added when a professional entertainer, introduced as Percy Reinald Fitzgerald, impersonated an English lord criticizing America.

The business session was followed by dancing and cards.

BURKE FLAYS MANEUVERS IN BOND CAMPAIGN

Following a speech made before some 600 persons at the Frances Willard Junior High school last night, J. F. Burke, former editor of the Register, caused the meeting to be dismissed and then, in an unannounced talk, scored the passage of the proposed $6,620,000 water bond issue, scheduled for December 19.

"After the first campaign for the water bonds was over there was further investigation made and it was disclosed, beyond any doubt, that there was $1,650,000 more in those bonds for right of ways than was needed," he told his hearers.

Burke declared that there has been effort made to mislead the people of this county as to the reason why this was done.

"I understand that one of the members of the board of supervisors called up Mr. McLaughlin and told him what a jam they were in here following the printing of a story in the papers that Washington had declared there had been no time limit set for the appropriation of the money. They wanted help from Mr. McLaughlin, and Mr. McLaughlin is going to send a wire down to tell the supervisors if the people do not pass the bonds, just as they are, on the 19th, he is going to deny us any opportunity in the future to get any federal money. They have it set up. One of the men who was working against the bonds in the other campaign told me he called Mr. McLaughlin and Mr. McLaughlin thought he was representing the proponents of the bonds and the supervisors. Mr. McLaughlin said: 'I will do anything you fellows want.'"

"Now, a member of the board telephoned up to him and says we want you to take the money from Orange county or say you are going to take it so we can make a people go down the pike and go for the one million and a half dollars more than are necessary. Can you imagine such a situation? 'I do not believe the President of the United States or Harry Hopkins would stand for it if they knew it. I would vote against the bonds if for no other reason than that they are doing this,' Burke said.

OPPOSITION TO BONDS TOLD TO COUNTY EDITORS

Speaking from the standpoint of a rancher who was born in this county 54 years ago and who has watched with deep concern the development of the county, A. J. McFadden, chairman of the executive committee of the Associated Water Users of Orange County, last night expressed the conviction that the plan for flood control sponsored by the board of supervisors is excessive in cost by at least three million dollars and that the water conservation benefits have been greatly exaggerated.

Prior to McFadden's talk, made before editors and newspapermen of Orange county in James' cafe, J. F. Burke spoke briefly, predicting that today Director Frank Y. McLaughlin of the WPA would send a telegram here taking away the federal grant if voters in the county do not approve the water bonds at the December 19 election. The telegram came today as predicted.

Burke charged that McLaughlin does as H. H. Cotton wants him to; that Cotton wants the bonds passed and that this move was made to try to force voters to pass the bonds. He said he does not believe Harry Hopkins or President Roosevelt would stand for dictatorship like that. The telegram, Burke said, would come after a telephone call made to McLaughlin by an Orange county supervisor. Burke pointed out that Hopkins' department in Washington had set no December 20 deadline. He expressed doubt that the supervisors could out the tax rate by 10 cents as promised if the bonds carry.

After outlining his experiences in Orange county, which embraced a lifetime spent in agricultural work here, McFadden discussed the entire water situation in the county as it now appears to him.

Engineering data on Orange county floods, he pointed out, does not date back past the 1916 flood and even the estimates on velocity and amount of water which came down the river after the '16 flood were made by McBride and Hoy on calculations after the flood. Engineers, he said, can build a lot on a small amount of information.

Comparing the various floods which the county has experienced, McFadden declared that all we really know about these floods is that they come about every 100 years. He scoffed at plans for taking care of a "once in a thousand years flood," calling attention to the fact that that is longer than any civilization has yet endured and is three times longer than the history of this nation.

The situation in the county now is different than at the times of those past floods, he said, for the land is cleared off now and there used to be no defined channel of the river below Fifth street, so that water used to spread out. Water levels were high then and the water levels are low and there is a great absorptive area where the water can sink down to the underground basin.

"The proposed dam at Brea to take care of any floods which would damage Fullerton," he said, "is a good proposition and we are all for it." Other smaller dams in the plan to be voted upon, including the Trabuco dam, also dam, Coyote creek and Carbon Canyon works are "political dams" which are not needed, he charged, declaring that the San Juan dam would give needed water to the coastal area.

Approves Prado Site
He said that the Prado site is the proper place for the proposed Santa Ana river dam. He expressed interest in knowing what the agreement was that caused the Riverside board of supervisors to agree to let Orange county build the dam in Riverside county.

One of the factors in the proposed plan to be voted on December 19 which caused the speaker great concern was the fact that the dam will not permit the formation of a lake of water behind the dam, but instead will let all of the water through an eight-foot opening in the dam until in 20 days all the water would run out if the dam were full. As a farmer, he said, he is interested in seeing the water conserved and not permitted to run to the ocean.

"We must look from the point of view of the fellow who pays the bills," he said. "The supervisors are doing what they think is best for the county, but it is easy for an official who handles large sums of money to forget the man who has a hard time paying his milk bill."

Different parts of the county, he said, need flood protection more than others. He said he never saw Santa Ana and Orange flooded and that the Santiago dam has never set been half full. San Clemente, Newport Beach, Laguna Beach and most of Fullerton is safe, he said, but Anaheim needs the flood protection.

He pointed out that land in bottom of the river would become more valuable if the plan is put into operation, but the sloping lands where oranges and other products are grown would not increase in value. He estimated that the lower lands benefit by a ratio of 75 per cent by the plan and the upper lands 25 per cent, yet the upper lands, more valuable because of the products grown on them, would pay five times as much taxes for the program than the lands which would be benefited most.

"Why the fellow above has a right to demand the most economical and feasible flood control plan possible."

He said we don't need another dam on the Santiago river or another 25 feet on the one now there until we see how the present dam works out.

Relief Angle
Discussing another angle of the program, he said: "I am completely fed up on this business of trying to mix efficiency and relief. The people have a right to demand as economical and efficient plan as possible, using efficient labor, modern machinery and contracts on the lowest bids. This is our business matter, not a relief matter. Try to mix relief and efficiency and you get in trouble up to your neck. We are willing to pay taxes to keep people from starving, but it does not pay to try to mix relief and efficiency."

The speaker expressed considerable concern over the future prosperity of Orange county, pleading that it would not be possible to raise funds for importation of needed water. He warned that the time will come in the near future when it will be necessary to use water from the Colorado river for agriculture here.

"We must have a new source of water," he said. "The average rainfall here is not equal to the amount we use. Our water situation would be helped some by the plan proposed. It is said that an average of 40,000 acre feet a year of water would be conserved by the angles on an average which considers the flood figures as well as average water flow."

Following his talk, McFadden answered many questions put by newspapermen of the county. In answering these, he said that in his opinion, from three and a half to four million dollars could have been saved in the water program when it was first proposed.

He said he signed the petition asking the supervisors to call the second election with the understanding that a saving would be made. The extent of water spreading in the upper counties which prevents water from flowing down into Orange county was discussed.

NEGRO SENTENCED
Eddie Clark, Negro youth who said he had been a porter at the Cotton Club, Los Angeles, and lived in the 1900 block of West Fourth street, Los Angeles, began serving a 30-day sentence in the county jail today, after pleading guilty to vagrancy in Judge J. G. Mitchell's court. Clark was arrested by city police after a Fourth street market man caught him in the act of taking a can of salmon.

One of the factors in the proposed plan to be voted on December 19 which caused the speaker great concern was the fact that the dam will not permit the formation of a lake of water behind the dam, but instead will let all of the water through an eight-foot opening in the dam until in 20 days all the water would run out if the dam were full. As a farmer, he said, he is interested in seeing the water conserved and not permitted to run to the ocean.

"We must look from the point of view of the fellow who pays the bills," he said. "The supervisors are doing what they think is best for the county, but it is easy for an official who handles large sums of money to forget the man who has a hard time paying his milk bill."

Different parts of the county, he said, need flood protection more than others. He said he never saw Santa Ana and Orange flooded and that the Santiago dam has never set been half full. — News Behind the News —

BY PAUL MALLON
(Copyright, 1935, by Paul Mallon)

PRO
WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—It was quite unusual, the way President Roosevelt got involved off and on in the record in the constitutional arguments on the AAA before the supreme court.

His Chicago farm speech was referred to factiously off-stage by some court lawyers as "the best brief yet filed in the case" for the government. What they meant was that the speech seemed to be a subtle warning to anyone who would hinder or overthrow the AAA program.

The warning was available to all who read newspapers, and supreme court justices are supposed to be the most constant readers in Washington.

CON

But lawyers on the other side also brought Mr. Roosevelt in as their best witness against the government. In their briefs, they cited the president's Atlanta speech on two of the biggest points in dispute. They used it to contend that the purpose of the processing tax was not to get revenue, but to control production, and that the AAA act was not emergency legislation.

What the president said in Atlanta and in Chicago was to the effect that improved farm conditions were due to the AAA, which brought control and limitation of production, thus increasing prices. He also indicated it was a rather permanent program.

Thus, the president's unprecedented appearances in the case appeared to cancel off.

GUM-SHOEING

All industry seemed to be represented at George L. Berry's peculiar convention. The invitation refusals sent in by the major industries must have been for official effect.

Of course, some decliners were standing behind the marble columns, peeping out. Others affected mild official disguises. One even tried to get a press pass from a newsman so he could be up front to observe all that went on without being officially in attendance, also, nearly every industry strong enough to employ a Washington lobbyist, sent him there in one form or another.

That is to say, the expected happened. The big bulk of industry officially boycotted the meeting, but did not dare to let such a vital gathering go unobserved.

SELF-HELP

The fundamental background of business excitement about such a supposedly unrepresentative gathering was apparently this:

A substantial number of small industrialists are supposed to have accepted eagerly Mr. Berry's invitation. They were the ones who were helped by the old NRA. Contrary to the general impression now, there were some in that category. For instance, a small shoe manufacturer might have been able to get minimum wage exemptions because city standards or not live under their own. The big city manufacturer could not get such exemptions. Thus, the NRA in such particular instances was a boon to some small manufacturers.

The big manufacturers could not afford to let the Berry convention reach an agreement which could be presented to congress as a recommendation of the small fellows.

TEMPLE TO TEMPLE

The great government palaces constructed lately on Constitution avenue are already proving inadequate to house the New Deal.

One new bureau, the motor carrier division of the interstate commerce commission, is preparing to move from the temple provided for the entire commission. It has only 150 employees but expects to have 500 to 600, and the space provided for it is too small.

Adequate accommodations have been rented for it where you would least expect. The whole building of the Negro Masonic temple has been leased in another section of the city.

With Prof. Tugwell in the old Walsh mansion, the McLean mansion and under the hotel roof garden where Kate Smith came to fame, out-of-town visitors will have to look for the New Deal in some very strange places.

TIMING

Despite legal delays, the supreme court may be expected to pass on most of the New Deal before the presidential campaign opens in June. The original AAA act and Bankhead act are now being argued. The TVA argument is already fixed for December 18. The amended AAA act (Rice Millers case) will be argued December 16. The court has granted a government petition to review the right to condemn land for low cost housing and slum clearance. An appeal is imminent in the case of the oil operator, Jones, who refused to testify before the SEC. Lawyers in the Carter coal case (Guffey act) are to ask the high court to permit them to jump from the District of Columbia supreme court, but the government may not co-operate. However, there are other Guffey cases which lead court attaches to believe a Guffey ruling will come before June.

This leaves out only labor relations, social security, utilities and railroad pensions. And utilities may possibly get up in time.

SHOCK

Three industrialists collapsed when the taxi taking them to the Berry convention drew up in front of the stated address and they noted "department of labor" on the door. That is what they thought they were getting into.

The convention hall adjoined the labor department, and the address on cards of admission were indefinite. Many delegates actually entered the hall through the labor building.

FATAL PAUSE

Mr. Berry should never have paused after saying in his speech that the "only fly in the business ointment today is 11,000,000 unemployed." The silence permitted half the hall to hear the stage-whispered observation of a delegate who nudged his neighbor and said: "That's some fly." Also the rejoinder of the neighbor: "That is practically 11,000,000 flies."

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

TRUCE?
Several miracle workers at Washington are maneuvering to arrange a reconciliation between Reserve Board Governor Eccles and Carter Glass, the senate's financial authority. If it comes off it will mark the end to the deadlock in a capital which fights over misplaced commas.

The volcanic Virginian can't speak of the liberally-minded banker from Utah without taking time out for classic profanity. For a while Mr. Eccles retaliated in the same tone whenever the statesman's name bobbed up in private conversation—or even when it didn't. But lately young Mr. Eccles' friends have been passing out word that he has conceived a deep admiration for the crusty Carter.

The two feudists favor branch banking and unification of the banking system and mutual friendliness will advance this common aim as a reason for making up. It would also enable Washington to present a united front against financial interests eager to capitalize on any discord in official circles. A truce would please FDR a lot.

CAUTION—

Austin Chamberlain's wistful complaint that "the United States is a very difficult nation to get along with" raised a laugh among those who have been shadowing foreign diplomats through the foreign corridors of the State Department building.

The most frequent stroller in recent months has been Mr. Chamberlain's own ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay. He has known at all times what Mr. Hull proposed to do to reinforce the London-League embargo against Italy and Ethiopia. The huge Briton has tipped off our Secretary of State on British moves to stave off Japanese penetration of Northern China.

The teamwork has not been perfect and the two collaborators have had to camouflage their cooperation. But what happened is that the United States took the lead in applying pressure, on Italy, only to see London and Geneva hang back. When London besought us to swing on Japan, too, Mr. Hull backed away. Then 10 Downing Street protested to Tokyo, and Mr. Hull simply issued a cautiously worded statement expressing the pious hope that Japan wasn't stalling jam while the world wasn't looking. Mr. Hull doesn't intend to take on all Great Britain's troubles single-handedly, if that's what Mr. Chamberlain wants.

ADJUSTED—

Wise buyers of liquor for the holidays should purchase only enough to wassail them through New Year's Day. Prices ought to drop sharply after January 1, when the Canadian treaty becomes effective and lowers duties on booze from abroad.

Alcohol Administrator Hoyt recently spread the glad tidings, although he coughed it in technical language difficult for the lay drinker to comprehend. Mr. Hoyt has authorized distillers to make rebates to retailers on goods bought before January 1 but remaining on their shelves after the new year. Thus when retail prices are forced down local vendors may recoup from the distillers. Dealers were refusing to stock up with fancy brands in the face of large losses after January 1. They told Mr. Hoyt of the threat of a cheerless Christmas and the former children's judge relented.

PREPARING—
FDR has told friends that he will lose no sleep—or votes—over the NAM's warning that he is heading the nation toward the rocks. He didn't count on their support and he can use their enmity.

In fact, NAM insiders confide that they were aiming at Roosevelt only indirectly. They discovered long ago that it was a waste of breath and white paper to beseech him to revise his policies to suit their ideas. They have frequently chuckled as they watched Dan Roper tie up their colleagues on the advisory council in administration apron strings. Most NAM members resigned from that body in disgust.

What the Bardo-Lund-Emery leadership did was to warn the GOP that it must not flirt with the liberals of the Boohay brand. The Senator's recent display of popular strength has frightened them. Though they hope to break Roosevelt next year, they prefer to lose to him than to win with a maverick Republican. They want no compromise with the New Deal, hoping to smash it in 1940 if not in 1936. They think such a blessed event is worth waiting for.

HARRIMAN—

Behind these New Deal-Old Deal barrages there is being waged a silent trench warfare in which the President is skillfully deploying his forces. He is trying to make a flank attack by holding certain important and liberally-minded industrialists on his side.

The President's missionary in this divide-and-rule strategy is Henry L. Harriman, New England power chief, partial sponsor of the NRA and former president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. He has been offered several official posts but he declined them because he thought they would embarrass his efforts to effect a working arrangement between business and government. He dislikes many Rooseveltian experiments but he holds that national disaster will result from continued warfare.

The NAM also had Mr. Harriman in mind when the resolution makers leaped on the President. They hope to destroy the loose alliance between the Harrimans, who comprise about 20 per cent of what is commonly called Big Business, and the White House. But they screamed too loud and overplayed their hand.

WORKING—

"Charlie" West of Ohio is running errands for the White House again. Although he draws his pay as Under Secretary of the Interior, he still serves as liaison man between President Roosevelt and the politicians.

Secretary Ickes seemed to snub the President's professional friend when the latter was attached to interior. Mr. Ickes assigned him an office four floors down from his own—a lowly place for the second in command. But now it appears that Mr. Ickes was doing the President—and ex-Congressman West—a favor. In his new hideout he confers with politicians from New York, Ohio and points west without attracting headlines.

For several months the professor disappeared from the public gaze. It was supposed that he was mastering complex problems besetting him as a newcomer to the Interior Department. But it turns out that he will continue to function as a presidential foot-soldier.

NOTES—

One of the "powers" that may take Japan by the throat for violating the nine-power treaty is Portugal. . . . GOP Chairman Fletcher makes his listeners dizzy by protesting against the slow rate of spending work-relief money. . . . Gov. Niece of Maryland apologizes to the Persian minister and warns traffic officers not to handcuff speeding diplomats any more. . . . Senator McNary, Republican leader of the Senate, has a nice new farm-relief plan to be proposed when, as, and if,

REDUCTION OF NAVIES IS SOUGHT

Suggest Conference Reduce to Lowest Level Possible for Navies

LONDON, Dec. 11.—(UP)—Japan, demanding naval equality with Great Britain and the United States, suggested at the five-power naval conference today that the three navies be reduced to the lowest possible level, entailing the scrapping of warships.

The Japanese spokesman told the conference he was urging parity for the United States, Britain and Japan only on a total tonnage basis.

He thus rejected the British and American thesis that navies should be limited by specifying the number and size of ships each nation can build in any given type of fighting craft.

Nagano said Japan envisages achievement of equality for the Japanese, British and American fleets at the lowest possible level, explaining that if the level decided upon was below the present strength of the two largest fleets, they would be obliged to scrap some ships. He added that if the level agreed upon were below that of the existing Japanese fleet, Japan would also be prepared to scrap tonnage to reach a common level.

Nagano's declaration was a response to questions put to the Japanese delegation yesterday by Viscount Monell of Evesham, first lord of the admiralty. One of the most important of these questions was whether Japan was ready to disclose her building program for the next six years, upon which there will be no treaty restriction after the Washington treaty expires at the end of 1936 as a result of Japan's denunciation of it.

Minister Speaks On Peace Parade

FULLERTON, Dec. 11.—The effectiveness of the peace parade held at Fresno two weeks ago by some 500 young people of the Methodist churches was the topic on which the Rev. E. Dow Hoffman talked at the meeting of the Fullerton W. C. T. U. Tuesday.

The Rev. and Mrs. L. W. Hays, of the Christian Missionary Alliance church spoke at the afternoon session. They also sang a group of duets.

Mrs. Cora Hale presided at the business meeting where reports were heard from department heads. The next meeting will be January 14 at the church.

DESTROYER MOFFET IS LAUNCHED TODAY

QUINCY, Mass., Dec. 11.—The destroyer leader U. S. S. Moffett, built at a cost of $3,500,000 and named for Rear-Admiral William Adger Moffett who perished in the dirgeable Akron disaster, was launched today.

Although damage estimated at $25,000 to $100,000 was caused here Saturday to the new cruiser U. S. S. Quincy in what some reports described as an act of sabotage, Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation officials insisted that "only the usual precautions" were taken at today's launching. Shipyard police were on duty but officials said no other guards were posted.

Just before the 372-foot craft was sent down the ways, Miss Beverly Moffett, daughter of the admiral, smashed a gold wire-encased bottle of champagne across the prow.

BANK OF AMERICA DECLARES DIVIDEND

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—Bank of America, N. T. & S. A., today announced declaration of the regular dividend of 62 1-2 cents a share and an extra dividend of 50 cents a share payable Dec. 31 to stock on record Dec. 15.

Bank of America (California) an associated state bank also declared a regular quarterly dividend of 41 3-4 cents a share. Almost 100 per cent of the two dividends will be paid the Transamerica Corporation as holder of 59.64 per cent of the stock of the national bank and 98.98 per cent of the state bank stock. The corporation will receive a total of $6,077,000 in dividends from the two bank groups for 1935.

CHINESE SOLDIERS KILLED IN CHAHAR

PEIPING, Dec. 11.—Eighty Chinese soldiers were killed today by Manchukuoan troops who captured the town of Paochang, in Chahar, using artillery and airplanes in the attack. Among those killed was Li Ho Chang, commander of the local forces of the peace conservation corps, official Chinese announcements said.

Paochang is 40 miles west of Kuyuan, in southeastern Chahar, which a Manchukuoan force was reported to have invaded yesterday and to be still holding. Thirteen defenders of Kuyuan were killed by Manchukuoan troops when they captured the town, which is only about 100 miles south of Dolo Nor, where Soviet troops recently clashed with a Japanese-Manchukuoan force.

DRIVER BLAMED IN TRAFFIC FATALITY

A coroner's jury verdict, declaring that Kenneth E. Cornell, 19, Lawndale youth, lost his life in Santa Ana canyon Sunday night because he lost control of the car he was driving, was on file today in Coroner Earl Abbey's office.

At the inquest yesterday afternoon it was pointed out that Cornell's car traveled 66 feet along the ditch, turned in back on the highway where it crossed the road and crashed into a cliff, killing Cornell instantly. Cornell's companions, Walter Abbott of Lawndale and Alex Gear of Hawthorne, suffered broken collar bones. The boys were returning from a hunting trip at the time of the accident. Funeral services for Cornell will be conducted at Hawthorne tomorrow.

NEW DEAL IS DEALT BLOW IN ARGUMENTS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—The New Deal's defense of its farm program in supreme court suffered a temporary blow today when solicitor general Stanley Reed abandoned, for the present, attempts to argue the case. Reed collapsed under severe questioning in the court yesterday.

It was indicated that the government might decide to abandon for the present further oral argument in the vital test of the Bankhead cotton control law, brought before the court by Lee Moor, Texas cotton grower.

This followed minor rebuffs suffered by Reed when he attempted to outline the administration's position before the court yesterday. Reed collapsed shortly after the high court justices had halted his argument along several lines.

HAUPTMANN'S WIFE TURNS DOWN TEST

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 11.—Mrs. Bruno Richard Hauptmann agreed to undergo a "lie detector" test last night in Chicago, and then tore the machine from her arm. Dr. James H. Heppner, managing director of the Baltimore criminal justice association, told members of the Poor Richard club.

Mrs. Hauptmann never indicated a belief that a "lie detector" test would free her husband or prove his innocence, he said. "The lie detector test was offered and turned down by Mrs. Hauptmann," he said.

He told of Mrs. Hauptmann's offering to undergo the test, of answering a few questions about cards in which she "was caught in a few deceptions," and of "jump-

WORLD SILVER CRISIS SPREADS AS U. S. SILENT

BULLETIN
LONDON, Dec. 11.—(UP)—The United States treasury today saved the world silver market from further collapse when it bought a comparatively small block and permitted establishment of a price at 27 1-2 pence an ounce—equivalent on the basis of the latest pound sterling quote to 81 cents a fine ounce.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—(UP)—The world silver crisis spread today as the U. S. treasury, key to the situation as the principal purchaser of the white metal, maintained strict silence regarding its intentions.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., failed to expand the cryptic treasury statement of yesterday that the treasury was continuing to carry out the policies of the silver purchase act.

However, some announcement or indication of whether the treasury would resume its silver purchases or, at least, of the reason for its sudden suspension of purchases, was expected before long.

Meantime, the silver crisis resulting from cessation of U. S. treasury purchases in the London market deepened. Grave fears were expressed in Mexico, principal silver producing nation, that some change in the American policy of bidding up the silver price impended.

Any interruption in the American program, it was feared, would react gravely in Mexico where industry and business are heavily dependent upon prosperity in silver mining.

No new clue to the treasury's intention came from London but it was said unofficially that efforts were being made to form a syndicate of British banking institutions to buy traders over the present crisis. It was said oriental bankers had requested such aid.

The crisis reacted sharply in the price of silver shares which sold off on the New York stock exchange, while silver on the Montreal market was off 70 to 225 points at the opening.

When You Go To The Polls Tomorrow: — REMEMBER —

1. The school rooms were safe enough for our children until the people voted down the bond issue on October 4. Then, all-of-a-sudden they were unsafe and the children were taken out. WHY?
2. No member of a public body should benefit by his membership to that board by contracts or any other way. One of them has profited at every opportunity.
3. The buildings are supposed to belong to the people, but groups of our tax payers as represented by the Epics, the people supporting the Townsend Old Age Pension plan, public forums and others have been denied the use of the buildings for their meetings.
4. If the school board insists that the buildings belong to them and not to the people, then let the school board put up the money for the new buildings and the auditorium. Why should the taxpayer, who has been denied the right to use the buildings, be forced to pay?

ADVICE ON NEW MOVIES GIVEN BY CITY P.-T. A.

Verdicts on five recent motion picture releases have been returned by Mrs. M. W. Hollingsworth, chairman of the Motion Picture committee of the City Council Parent-Teacher association. In her report Mrs. Hollingsworth has indicated whether or not the releases are suitable for children and whether they are worthwhile for adult consideration.

Her recommendations follow:

"Broadway Hostess" — Warner Bros., directed by Frank McDonald. Cast includes Winifred Shaw, Genevieve Tobin, Lyle Talbot, Allen Jenkins and Phil Regan. A tawdry drama and has as its theme the life and loves of a torch singer. A capable cast is wasted on a tiresome story. Typical night club settings are adequately photographed. Adults: Fair, 8-13, doubtful.

"The Perfect Gentleman" — MGM — directed by Tim Whelan. Cast: Frank Morgan, Cecily Courtneidge, Heather Angel, Herbert Mundin, Una O'Connor. An amusing comedy of an English family whose plans are shaken by the well-meaning efforts of one of its members, the Major, who in every situation is the Perfect Gentleman. The title role is adroitly portrayed by Frank Morgan, who is supported by an excellent cast of British Theatricals. Good photography, accurate settings, clever dialogue with finished diction, and a pleasing musical score. Adults, children 8-13, good.

"Ship Cafe" — Paramount — Directed by Robert Florey. Cast: Carl Brisson, Arline Judge, Mady Christians, Grant Withers. The social elevation of a ship's stoker with a golden voice leads him to the ridicule of old companions. Several pleasant musical interludes fail to redeem the unattractive personnel and disagreeable locale of this picture. Adults: Fair; 8-13, doubtful.

"Tale of Two Cities" — MGM — Directed by Jack Conway. Cast: Ronald Coleman, Elizabeth Allen, Edna May Oliver, Reginald Owen, Basil Rathbone. Charles Dickens' immortal story of sacrifice comes to the screen with a faithfulness of spirit and letter which could but delight its author. A Tale of Two Cities is beautifully photographed, with delightfully finished characterizations. The high lights of the familiar tale—the two trials of the Bastille; the hour on Christ-mas eve, when Sydney Carton places his heart forever in Lucie's keeping; the battle to the death between the faithful nurse and Madame Defarge; the final dramatic scene when Carton speaks the unforgettable "It is a far, far better thing that I do than I have ever done—" are given a new depth, a new color, through their transmission to the screen. Blanche Yurka, whose interpretation of Lucie's role has maintained the highest standards of the theater, depicts the role of Madame Defarge with fire and power. Ronald Coleman as Sydney Carton, plays the latter scenes with an effective fatalism, a quiet joy, in sharp contrast to the devil-may-care, bibulous barrister of earlier sequences. Henry Walthall's Dr. Manette is moving; while Elizabeth Allen, as Lucie, is the typical Dickens heroine, frail and lovely, who aways men's lives by her gentle charm. The research, feeling and artistry which have gone into this production have resulted in a screen classic which will take its place with "David Copperfield," "Mutiny on the Bounty." Adults and 14-18; excellent. 8-14 too much cruelty for nervous children. Possible for family.

"The Widow From Monte Carlo" — Warner — Directed by Arthur Greville Collins. Cast: Warren Williams, Dolores Del Rio, Louise Fazenda, Colin Clive, Herbert Mundin. A beautiful widow, the Duchess of Rye, accepts the advances of a dashing young army officer despite the conventions of her position. The socially ambitious but hopelessly gauche wife of a marmalade manufacturer provides near slap-stick relief, while the recovery of the inevitably indiscreet letter supplies the note of drama to a made-to-order scenario. Attractive settings, excellent photography, with capable acting by a well-groomed cast. Adults, 14-18, fair, 8-14 uninteresting.

Royal Neighbors Elect Officers

FULLERTON, Dec. 11.—New officers were elected, plans were made for a Christmas party and four were initiated at the meeting of the Royal Neighbors lodge Tuesday night.

New officers to be installed in January are: Mabel Daleesi, orator; Vera Smith, vice orator; Ina Carter, past orator; Winifred Blackford, recorder; Dora Riley, receiver; Irma Robinson, chancellor; Emma Crawford, marshal; Grace Noel, sentinel; Lena Humborg, critic; Leo Fallert, manager, and Georgia Duncan, musician.

The Christmas party will be December 17 at the Odd Fellows hall, and will include members of the Woodmen's lodge and Royal Neighbors and families.

Initiated were Clara Gouldin, Ethel Evans, Florence Smith and Mrs. Noel.

BURNED "PLAYING LADY" — WEST PLAINS, Mo. (UP)—Nadine Wahlquist, 4, dressed up in one of her mother's dresses to play at being a lady. She tripped and fell into a fireplace and was severely burned.

Lasso Is Weapon in Mexican Riot

Lariats made their appearance with guns and clubs as riot weapons in the street battle pictured here, one of the clashes which took a toll of five dead and scores wounded in Mexico City as Fascist Golden Shirts fought peasants and workers celebrating the 25th anniversary of the Mexican revolution. One rioter is seen swinging a club at a mounted Golden Shirt whose lasso threatens to pin the man's arms to his side. Threat of a general strike was made to the government unless the Golden Shirts were dissolved.

TRYOUTS FOR ROLES CALLED BY PLAYERS

With production dates for the next Community play, "Cock Robin," to be set for January, call has gone forth for the first tryouts for roles to be held Friday night at 7:30 o'clock in The Barn, on Mabury street.

"Cock Robin," an amusing mystery drama, was written by Elmer Rice and Philip Barry, and promises to be as much of a success when presented locally, as was the first major production of the association season, "The Bellamy Trial." "Cock Robin" is a lighter, gayer play than "The Bellamy Trial," however, and abounds in amusing situations and scintillant lines. It is virtually a satire on little theater groups, and presents a play within a play, as the cast is engaged in producing an amateur play when the mysteries of the plot develop.

Gladys Simpson Shafer, association director, today explained that there are roles for eight men that there are roles for eight men and four women in "Cock Robin," and has asked that everyone interested in taking part, come to The Barn Friday night and read the roles under supervision of the casting committee, working with her as director.

WEST URGES DEVELOPMENT OF TIDELANDS OIL POOL TO PROVIDE STATE REVENUES

Holding up the state's tideland oil pool at Huntington Beach as the solution of the state's financial problems, Supervisor N. E. West, of Laguna Beach, today addressed a letter to Gov. Frank F. Merriam, urging that a special session of the legislature be called to authorize development of the oil pool by the state, instead of private interests.

Noting that Governor Merriam "would bring much needed revenue to the state" and, further, "is necessary to stop the further looting of this state-owned oil by the Standard Oil company."

West, who took an active part last summer in the attempt to pass the "island drilling" act, which was backed by the Gilmore Oil company and associates, included in his letter the charge that Orange county's legislators, Senator N. T. Edwards, Speaker Ted Craig and James B. Utt of the assembly, participated in "betrayal" of the people by joining the legislative majority that "turned over this great oil pool at Huntington Beach to the Standard Oil company."

Probe Sought
West made similar charges against the legislators at the time the island drilling bill was defeated. Subsequently the legislators demanded that a legislative committee, named to investigate the oil pool situation, call upon West to prove his charges. No hearing ever was held. Recently, the Orange county grand jury was asked by Huntington Beach citizens, to investigate West's charges.

In his letter to Governor Merriam, West suggested that the Huntington Beach pool would meet the $12,000,000 budget for old age pensions, and a liberalized pension plan, relieving taxpayers to that extent.

He declared that while the last legislature did pass some needed legislation, "the session and the members as a whole probably represented the lowest point to which the legislative branch of our state government has yet fallen." The retrenchment policy on which most of them had been elected was disregarded, the supervisor charged.

Text of Letter

West's letter to the governor follows:

"It was with keen interest that I read of your proposal, disclosed in Sunday's paper, December 8, to call a conference of representative citizens about mid-January to consider a tax program to avert an ad valorem levy on real estate, in case either the sales tax or the state income tax should be repealed.

"May I urge that you call a special session of the legislature at your earliest convenience for the purpose of developing the greatest single resource owned by the state of California—the five-hundred-million-dollar oil pool under the tide waters at Huntington Beach. This special session I believe is justified not only because the development by the state of this oil pool will bring much needed revenue to the state but it is necessary to stop the further looting of this state-owned oil by the Standard Oil company.

Meet Pension Budget
"One big item in the biennium budget, $12,000,000 for old age pensions, can be met entirely by the state's drilling of this oil pool. This great resource should be developed by the state itself and could justly be used to meet the expense of the liberalized old age pension plan. The revenue thus obtained, would meet the state's part of the $50 monthly pension for the needy aged. I submit, there is no more practical or just plan, to do long-delayed justice to the aged and to lighten the taxpayers' burden at the same time.

"If this oil were developed by the state and the net revenue used for old age pensions and thus passed on to the relief of the taxpayers, you could justly feel proud of this achievement of your administration; for social justice would be met and you would have saved this great public wealth from exploitation by the unholy and covetous oil interests.

"The assembly investigation committees on the oil question have not functioned, although repeatedly requested to do so. A practical plan of development is available—a plan that will not make concessions to any oil company or endanger beaches from pollution.

Criticizes Legislature
"While the last legislature worked overtime and passed some needed legislation, the session and the members as a whole probably represented the lowest point to which the legislative branch of our state government has yet fallen.

ed overtime and passed some needed legislation, the session and the members as a whole probably represented the lowest point to which the legislative branch of our state government has yet fallen.

"A majority, if not all, of both houses were elected on a retrenchment program. The people had been told that 75 per cent of the state expenditures were fixed by the constitution and expenditures could not be greatly reduced without amendments. Accordingly, by initiative, the people gave the last legislature a mandate to call a constitutional convention for the purpose of rendering that document flexible, so that expenses could be controlled within the limit of the taxpayers' ability to pay.

"The people were betrayed in this mandate by their representatives as they were on several other issues: for example, the campaign promises to reduce taxes, and the effort by the majority, including our own Senator Edwards, Speaker Ted Craig, to turn over this great oil pool at Huntington Beach to the Standard Oil company. This was only prevented by your wise veto.

"If you will pardon the suggestion, may I remind you that the fiscal difficulties of the state can not be solved by finding new sources of taxes or by levying an unthinkable ad valorem tax on real estate, already bled white by over-taxation. The fiscal affairs of the state, also the counties and cities, can only be put on a sound basis by cutting public expenditures to what people can afford to pay from their income."

AMERICAN RELATIONS WITH CHINA AND JAPAN DISCUSSED AT COUNTY C. OF C. MEETING

A remedy for the American apathy toward the drama of conquest now being played in the Orient was presented by W. S. Rosecrans, of Hermosa Beach, at the dinner meeting of the Orange County Associated Chamber of Commerce at the Women's clubhouse in Buena Park last night.

A broader knowledge of the Oriental peoples as they know Americans; stabilization of the foreign service in establishment of a more firm policy, and a willingness to play a fair game with Oriental countries, were outlined as the basis for the remedy.

Rosecrans, who returned last spring from a trip to Japan and China as a representative of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, also presented the historical background of both the United States and Japan leading to present day situations.

He said in part: "Japan's idea in the conquest of China is the development of Chinese trade with the profits diverted to the conquering nation, the industrialization of the country, and the converting of 400,000,000 Chinese into a military and commercial giant. There is danger in forgetting that at some distant date, a more developed Japan may decide to try to conquer the United States, and with its continued progress may be able to do so, deplorable as are even the thoughts of war."

George Kellogg, of Yorba Linda, association president, was in charge of the program.

Committee reports were made by Ross Shaffer, of Tustin, advisory; Harry May, Fullerton, constitution and by-laws; Newport harbor committee report by the president; in-

Labor Council Endorses Water Bonds

The special meeting of the Orange County Central Labor union held last evening was largely attended, delegates from the various affiliated unions as well as many unorganized of the laboring men being present.

The question of the coming water bond election was the subject under discussion, many expressing their views. The need for voting the bonds was gone into and explained.

As the result of the meeting a resolution was introduced and adopted as follows: "That the Orange County Central Labor union unanimously endorse the proposed water bond issue to be voted upon at the bond election to be held December 19, 1935." The resolution was adopted without a dissenting voice.

LATHROP PAPER CONTAINS PLEA FOR AUDITORIUM

The Christmas number of the Lathrop Line-Up, monthly publication of students at Julia Lathrop Junior High school was issued yesterday.

The front page carries a picture of Santa Claus and poetic dedication of the edition to St. Nick, taken from the immortal poem "The Night Before Christmas" by Clement C. Moore. Members of the low 8 Blythe English class and reporters, editors and sponsors of the "Line-Up" joined in a Merry Christmas greeting to their readers.

Under the heading "Do We Get It?" the second page of the publication is devoted to essays by students stressing the need for an auditorium at the school. This page was contributed to by seven students who presented strong arguments for an assembly hall at the school.

The remainder of the paper was devoted to school news, humorous articles, fiction and cartoons.

By I. S. Klein
THE MIRACLE OF THE BLACK VIRGIN

ALONGSIDE the jagged cliffs of Montserrat, near Barcelona, Spain, is one of Europe's most famous monasteries. Cherished within its walls is an image of the Virgin, carved out of black wood, to which a steady flow of pilgrims comes to pray.

In the eighth century, this image lay defiled by the invading Saracens. A century or two later, some shepherds heard mysterious voices and saw a strange light over the mountain. The townspeople ventured up, and there they discovered the lost image of the Virgin. But when they sought to move it, the image became too heavy for them. This was the Virgin's miraculous way of notifying her discoverers that here she wanted to remain.

So a chapel was built for her, and here she has stayed, a refuge to countless of the faithful.

DON GRIDDERS ANXIOUS TO TAKE UP RUGBY; TEAM ASSURED

Santa Ana Jaycee's football players are so hot for rugby they want to get going right now, but Coach Bill Cook believes they should draw a few deep breaths before plunging into another long season.

"Anyways," smiles Coach Cook, "I don't claim to know anything about the game and will have to go out for the team myself."

"We won't attempt to have any organized practice until Al Reboin has the basketball squad running smoothly. Reboin will handle our rugby club. He was the big shot of the Trojan rugger last season you know."

Coach Cook thinks rugby is a splendid medium of spring practice. He has encouraged all his returning footballers to participate. The English sport is especially good for wind and leg development.

Spring football practice has never been overly successful at Jaycee, largely because of the uncertainty many of the athletes feel about returning for their sophomore schooling. But it is expected to be different next spring. Virtually all this year's freshmen personnel will be back. And the men actually enthrall over the possibilities of a full-season spring practice, thanks to rugby.

There will be no leisurely Christmas vacation in Little Old Garden Grove for the Hapes brothers, Clarence and Ray. Instead the former Santa Ana Don gridders, now backfired big shots at the University of Mississippi, will be training hard for another football game.

LOUIS AND UZCUDUN TO DRAW $150,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(UP)—The fifth largest indoor gate in history virtually is assured for the Joe Louis-Paulino Uzcudun 15-rounder Friday. Promoter Mike Jacobs of the 20th Century club said today.

It will be the largest gate of all time for a fight of this type—one in which Paulino generally is accorded little or no chance of winning.

A sell-out gathering of 18,000 will pay upwards of $150,000 to see how long the gold-toothed 16-year-old Spaniard will be able to absorb punches from a fighter who encountered no difficulty in knocking Maxie Baer and Primo Carnera.

There practically is no betting on Uzcudun to win but, if you care to play long shots, a dollar can get you seven or more if the Basque upsets the dope.

Paulino, who has fought some of the best heavyweights in the business during the past 12 years, never has been kayed or even kissed the canvas. Thus, most of the betting is being done at 2 to 1 odds that Uzcudun does not go the full 15 rounds.

The one-time woodchopper of the Pyrenees has different views on the subject, however. In a blast from his New Jersey training camp Paulino said:

"Tell Mr. Jacobs he better wait until next Saturday before he signs anybody for Louis. They have counted Paulino out before other fights but no referee ever did it."

Paulino was referring to Jacobs' efforts to match Louis with Max Schmeling, another ex-champion who is trying to get back into the picture.

Schmeling, who had been angling for a shot at Jimmy Braddock's crown, apparently is convinced he first must eliminate Louis. Both Braddock and the N. Y. state commission agree that Louis is the leading contender, Jacobs is expected to sign Max some time this week.

PLAY BAREFOOTED
The Hawaiian school and civic football league, numbering some 3500 gridders, is unique in that all members play the game barefooted. Regulation uniforms, other than shoes, are used, and accidents resulting from bruises made by cleated brogans are nil.

HAWAIIANS IN A. B. C.
A five-man bowling team from Honolulu will take part in the American Bowling Congress next March. Nearly 3000 teams are expected to participate in the kegel classic.

MISSISSIPPI HAS ACCEPTED AN INVITATION to meet Catholic university of Washington D. C. in the Orange Bowl game at Miami on New Year's Day.

Old Miss won nine of its 11 starts this season, losing only to Marquette and Tennessee. Prospects for next season are even brighter since practically the whole team returns.

While wrestling with his turkey dinner at the Santa Ana Junior college football banquet the other night, Coach Bill Cook unfolded one of his pet theories.

He believes that any player, regardless of the amount of action seen, should receive a letter in football if he remains in training throughout the entire season and observes all the college's rules and regulations.

"The way it is now, here and everywhere else, only the outstanding boys are rewarded," explained Cook. "As a matter of fact it may be that those who get letters haven't labored as faithfully or as diligently as some who do not. It is easy for the big, husky boys to dig in out there. It isn't so soft for the little fellow to take his beatings, especially when by mid-season he often realizes the hopelessness of trying to win a first string spot."

Cook is anxious to give his letter-distribution theory a real test, may ask the administration for authority to experiment next fall.

Football followers often have wondered what one of these mythical all-star teams, picked at the end of every football campaign, could do playing together in a real game.

Now they know.

An All-Coast Prep league squad selected by the four coaches—Bill Foote, Orin Landreth, Glenn Broderick and George Hobbs—was announced today.

The first 12 choices were all Long Beach boys.

'INDEPENDENTS' TURN EAST FOR GRID CONTESTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—The Pacific Coast conference's new seven-game schedule policy will be a powerful factor in "nationalizing" football on the Pacific coast, observers predicted today.

The tendency, which may give coast grid followers the best opportunity in years to obtain a fair cross-section of what's happening on the nation's gridirons, was evident before announcement of the new policy was 24 hours old.

Independent teams, virtually cut off at the pockets by the ruling which forced them out of some of their best paying contests with the powers of western football, immediately looked eastward for new opponents to fill the blanks in their schedules—and, more important, the probable voids in their pocket books.

First hand indications were that games may be arranged with teams from New England, New York, the Deep South, the Southwest and the Midwest, a majority of which would come to the coast either in 1936 or 1937 in full-filling home-and-home agreements.

St. Mary's, consistently the most powerful of the non-conference teams involved, was negotiating for a game with Holy Cross of Worcester, Mass., undefeated and tied but once in 1935.

Santa Clara, dropped by California and Washington for 1936, was one of the best bets to provide high-class intersectional football here. Glenn S. ("Pop") Warner was in San Francisco for the meeting and may bring his Temple Owls west next year for a game with either Santa Clara or University of San Francisco.

Stricken from Stanford's roster, Jack Meagher, former Rice coach, and for a Home-and-Home series with Texas Christian, whom the Broncos have met for the past two years.

U. S. F. was said to be considering Manhattan college of New York as a possible opponent.

Idaho, virtually reduced with Montana to associate membership in the coast circuit, was seeking a game with Michigan State, Loyola college's 1935 intersectional foe.

Catholic Ties Strengthened
Although there were reports that formation of a new conference was being discussed among teams lopped off the major university schedules, it appeared that most concrete development along these lines would be strengthening of relations between the five Catholic schools, San Jose State loomed as a possible new opponent for St. Mary's, Santa Clara, U. S. F., Portland U. and Loyola, College of Pacific, with only its Far Western conference schedule in sight, also appeared a likely candidate to book games with some or all of the Catholic independents, and University of Idaho.

San Jose was a virtual Far Western conference outcast this season because of its policy of feigning and housing its players.

St. Mary's already has agreed to play Gonzaga and Loyola, while Gonzaga also will meet Santa Clara and possibly Loyola. Montana was looking to Santa Clara for a possible encounter in Butte.

Although there were many behind-the-hand whispers of impending reprisals against the conference members, few football officials, if any, could be found corroborating the reports. For the most part, they were inclined to minimize the action.

In its concluding session, the conference meeting re-elected Prof. Hugh C. Willett of U. S. C., president of the circuit and retained Earl Miller, U. C. L. A. as secretary.

The delegates also adopted a resolution asking newspaper publishers and editors and press associations to refrain from accorded football betting odds "undue publicity." Gambling and such publication of odds, they viewed as menaces to intercollegiate football.

German Boxer Has Everything But What He Wants

'BAER QUIT LIKE LITTLE DOG'

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—It was a get with the Negro, and you must be looking for the cocoanuts, ain't you? . . .

In a straight back chair, looking more like Dempsey than ever, the German answered all the questions. Some of them made him laugh; some of them made him scowl.

He wants Braddock before Louis because it's the title he wants, more than the money. He's got plenty of that—a lovely wife outside Berlin, a lovely wife who makes thousands a week in the movies, a hunting lodge in the Black Forest. But he hasn't the title, and that's what he wants above everything.

He branded as liars those who say he plans to in the title and then hurry back to Germany, never to return.

"I give my vote of honor," he explained, "that if I win the title I defend it in three months. If my vote of honor not enough I put up any amount of money boxing commission think I should."

He explained that he wasn't afraid of Louis. He doesn't say the Negro isn't as good as critics say he is, but he doesn't believe Joe has proved it.

"All the men he has beaten were scared to death—had what you call the jitters. I saw the pictures of the Baer fight and Max made me ashamed of him. He quit like a little dog. It's all right for a cheap fighter to take the count on one knee, but when a fellow is fighting for hundreds of thousands of dollars he ought to do his best. I promise to do my best."

Against the bank cagers Reboin will probably start Lacy and Stanley, forwards; Erdhaus, center; Lockhart and Riggs, guards.

Stanley, lanky lad from Tustin, stands as the most improved player on the squad. The accuracy with which he flips in left-handed hook shots caused Reboin to shift him from guard to forward.

The Long Beach unit is composed of former high school and Jaycee stars.

POPULAR PROBST ENDS S. C. GRID CAREER AGAINST PITT
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 11.—When University of Southern California's football team meets Pittsburgh Saturday in the Coliseum, the inter-sectional game will mark the to represent the Cardinal and Gold.

Despite the fact that he has been playing on a losing team, Cliff has earned recognition this season as an outstanding fullback.

He has been the Trojans' best defensive man in guarding against passes and in coming in to back up the line with hard tackles. Offensively, he has shown more speed than any other Trojan, and although he has not received the blocking that would enable him to run up good yardage figures, he has been a consistent ground gainer and has been particularly useful in pass relieving.

Cliff was born in Redlands 22 years ago of German-Irish parents. His family moved to San Bernardino and it was there that Cliff started in high school football as a halfback and in track and field as a sprinter, hurdler and pole vaulter. He entered Southern California in 1932 and has been majoring in accounting, a field that he intends to follow upon his graduation in June.

BRIGHT RECORD
The Chicago White Sox, in Russell Evans, have one of the best pitching prospects in the American league. The youngster will come up next spring with a record of having won 24 and lost 8 for Oklahoma City in the Texas league. He pitched a one-hitter against Dallas last season, but lost 1-0. When two passes, a force play, and a wild throw scored Dallas' marker.

DERBY DUCATS GO FAST
Although the Kentucky Derby is nearly five months away, Col. Matt Winn has reported that he has received 20 per cent more reservations for the horse race classic than at the same time last season.

Sonny Workman has renewed his contract to ride for the Cornellus Vanderbilt Whitney stable in 1936.

QUICK SALE OF BOWL TICKETS FOOLS TEXANS

PASADENA, Dec. 11.—The football public of far-flung sections of the United States sadly came to the realization today that Don Liebendorfer, publicity director at Stanford university, wasn't fooling when he announced two days ago the $4,474 tickets to the Rose Bowl on New Year's day are gone.

Liebendorfer meant what he said—the $4,474 clients who will see Stanford face Southern Methodist's undefeated football team have been selected in much the same manner that lucky numbers are drawn in the Irish sweepstakes.

Applications, accompanied by money orders or checks, were mailed to Rose Bowl headquarters. The first were the first opened. The early birds got the tickets—a certain small number in an effort to prevent scalping.

Preference went to Stanford alumni and residents of Texas to the extent that certain large blocks of ducats were set aside for them. It was indicated, however, that even Stanfordites and California-transplanted Texans found themselves out in the cold.

At a pre-game rally held last night at the Los Angeles Biltmore hotel, frank-speaking Texans were heard to lament in no uncertain language that it was an outrage so many of their clan will be unable to see vivacious Betty Bailey, the fancy stepping S.M.U. co-ed, march into the bowl at the head of the famous Mustang band.

Partially to soothe their feelings, the Texans will hold a pep meeting called the "Mustang Stampede" before the game—probably Dec. 23.

Betty Bailey will be there with her band unless a movie talent scout catches her and takes her away to Hollywood. Also there will be Bobby Wilson, who 'dates' Betty at Campus functions and plays an All-American halfback job for the Mustangs. Bobby, Betty, the football team will hear a speech by Rev. R. P. (Fighting Bob) Shuler, and songs by John Boles, movie star, both from the soil of Texas.

Jaysee Cagers, Cut to 13, Meet Bankers
Expected to produce the stiffest competition the Dons have run up against this season, the Security First National bank team, representative of the best in the Long Beach City league, and Santa Ana Junior college's budding basketballers meet tonight at 7:30 in the high school gym.

The game, which is free to the public, should be closer than the contests Coach Al Reboin's men have participated in so far as the Don storeroom yesterday cut his squad to 13 men. The complete first string contains Fred Erdhaus, Bob Browning, and Bob Spray, centers; Kenneth Nissley, Harry Stanley, Tom Lacy, Lloyd Buchink, and Bill Grieschner, forwards; Len Lockhart, Clarence Riggs, John Henry, John Jenner, and Jack Runnels, guards.

Against the bank cagers Reboin will probably start Lacy and Stanley, forwards; Erdhaus, center; Lockhart and Riggs, guards.

KRUEGER'S SUB-PAR GOLF LEADSSARASOTA
SARASOTA, Fla., Dec. 11.—(UP)—Entering the final 36 holes of play today, Alvin Krueger, Beloit, Wis., professional, had a commanding lead in the $2000 Sarasota Open golf tournament.

Krueger had first and second round cards of 67 and 66, for a total of 133.

Among the Bobby Jones crowd, Craig Wood and Vic Ghezzi, both of Deal, N. J., tied with 36-hole cards of 138, five strokes behind Krueger.

Johnny Revolt, Miami Biltmore club, and P. G. A. titleholder, and Herman Kaiser, Springfield, Mo., had 139's, three under par.

SOLIS IS PROMISED BOWEN MATCH IF HE WHIPS WILSON
Raoul Solis has been promised a return crack at Sailor Bowen within two weeks if he succeeds in defeating clever Clover Wilson, outstanding lightweight boxer of the Smart Set Athletic club of Los Angeles, in one of the feature four-round scraps billed to tomorrow night at the Orange County Athletic club.

Last week in his comeback appearance after being out of the ring for almost a year, Santa Ana's 1934 Golden Gloves champion, met Sailor Bowen who was given a questionable decision over Solis. Ringsiders booed the call in favor of the sailor lightweight for several minutes.

Bowen's handlers refused to agree to an immediate rematch but indicated that they would let the pride of the U. S. S. Pensacola go postwar against Solis later this month.

Sailor Hipps, the light-heavyweight from the U. S. S. Pensacola holds down the main event, meeting Al Burkhard of the Smart Set crowd.

Bowen opposes Jimmy DuPre; Art Arroya vs. Freddie Howard; Maxie Moore vs. Johnny Toombs; Hank Lowe vs. Willie Fields; and Eddie Hydon vs. Al Garcia completes the program.

SENIORS NEAR HIGH SCHOOL HOOP TITLE
Accurate shooting proved a determining factor in the 20-11 victory of the seniors over the juniors in the second game of the inter-class basketball tournament at Santa Ana high school last night.

This victory virtually gave the seniors, defending champs, the school championship. They were to meet the sophomores this afternoon. The sophs were defeated by the juniors Monday, 16-12.

Center Ed Eastham was high point man. Shooting from all angles, the tall senior center made half the tallies for his team. Bill Flood, guard, was second with four field goals.

The lineup:
Juniors (11) (30) Seniors

11 JACKRABBITS ON COACHES' ALL-STARS
Coast Preparatory league football coaches believed that Long Beach players dominated the conference season so decisively this season that they gave every spot on their first all-league team to Jackrabbits today.

Bob Reid, tackle; Jack Robinson, center, and Mac Beall, quarterback, were the Santa Anans picked on the coaches' second team.

The lineup:

Jacobs Corners Contenders For Ring Title

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(UP)—Twentieth Century club promoter Mike Jacobs, who learned fight promoting under the late "Tex" Rickard, held a corner today on all major heavyweight contenders.

Max Schmeling, Joe Louis, Paulino Uzcudun, Isadore Gastanaga and Charley Retzlaff all belong to the man who has practically filled the spot once held by Rickard.

The star outside Jacobs' realm is the champion, James J. Braddock, who is under contract to fight for Madison Square Garden in his first title defense.

The rapidity with which Jacobs has tied up all the available contenders made it almost certain that when Braddock steps into the ring next year to lay his title on the line Mike will have a finger in the promotional pie.

Jacobs made this a virtual certainty by signing Schmeling to box Joe Louis next June. Schmeling signed after being informed by the New York state boxing commission that he could not meet Braddock before eliminating Louis.

The contract provides that the document will be voided in case Louis is beaten in any of his three next fights—Paulino Uzcudun on Friday; Gastanaga of Spain at Havana Dec. 29 and Retzlaff at Chicago, Jan. 17.

Maxie agreed not to accept any match before the Louis fight.

Cleveland officials said: "We won't trade but you can buy Harder if you put enough cash money."

The Indians are more interested in obtaining a catcher than an outfielder, so Manager Steve O'Neill has concentrated his efforts on that department. One rumor said Cleveland and the Chicago White Sox had a deal coming up but there was no confirmation.

The way for trades in the National league was opened when Bob Quinn was awarded the franchise for the Boston Braves. Backed by a syndicate of business men, Quinn will run the Braves next year with a view toward pulling them out of the red. His plan was given unanimous support by National league executives with the stipulation that Charles Francis Adams, former majority stockholder in the club, would have no connection with the team.

Judge K. M. Landis frowned on Adams because of the latter's race horse connections.

A. L. Against Night Ball
Both leagues held the first meetings yesterday. The Nationals went on record to continue their night baseball policy in status quo. The Americans again voted unanimously against the floodlights. The Nationals will do the same next year as they did in 1935—permit each club to play seven home games at night.

Ford Frick, former New York newspaperman who has been president of the league one year, was re-elected for a two-year term and given a raise in salary. Boston was selected as the site for the 1936 all-star game.

The Americans elected Ruppert vice-president to succeed the late Frank Navin of Detroit. Walter O. Briggs, new owner of the Tigers, was elected to membership in the league.

Continue Fight To Keep U. S. From Olympics
NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—(UP)—The fight to keep America out of the 1936 Olympic Games at Berlin will center on the campaign to raise funds to send a full team to Germany.

Olympic opponents, defeated in an attempt to cause an official withdrawal when the Amateur Athletic union voted approval of American participation, announced today they would continue their propaganda campaign against competing.

The "antis" apparently will lose their fight to keep America completely out of the games. However, they can seriously affect the American Olympic committee's drive for $350,000 necessary to send a full team abroad.

Avery Brundage, New York A. U. president and head of the A. O. C. admitted last night that his committee "is in desperate financial condition."

HARDER TRADED FOR ALLEN AND BEN CHAPMAN?

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Officials of the New York Yankees were expected to announce a big player deal during the major league baseball meeting today.

Col. Jacob Ruppert, brewer and owner, must loosen the strings of his ample purse or see his team wind up below the Boston Red Sox and the Detroit Tigers next year.

A week ago Ruppert and Joe McCarthy, manager of the Yankees, announced they could win the flag in 1936 with their present squad. Two deals yesterday caused a radical change in their expectations.

Jimmy Foss, first baseman, and Johnny Marcum, pitcher, were sold to the Red Sox by Philadelphia. Al Simmons, erstwhile batting champion of the American league, was sold to the Detroit Tigers by the Chicago White Sox.

Ruppert Admits He's Needed
The transactions added so much strength to the Boston and Detroit clubs that Col. Ruppert finally admitted he might be forced to spend some cash in order to put his team in next year's race.

Ruppert was willing to trade Ben Chapman, outfielder, and Johnny Allen, a pitcher, to Cleveland for Mel Harder, the Indians' ace hurler.

Cleveland officials said: "We won't trade but you can buy Harder if you put enough cash money."

The Indians are more interested in obtaining a catcher than an outfielder, so Manager Steve O'Neill has concentrated his efforts on that department. One rumor said Cleveland and the Chicago White Sox had a deal coming up but there was no confirmation.

Shortwave Highlights

TO END TALKS ON "NATIONAL SCENE" HERE

The series of lectures on "The National Scene" will be closed Thursday evening, December 13, when Dr. J. A. C. Grant, professor of Political Science at the University of California, at Los Angeles, will discuss "The New Deal and the Constitution." It was announced today. The lecture will be at 7:30 p. m. in the Willard auditorium, 1345 North Ross street and is free to the public.

Dr. Grant will consider the following points:

1. The three tests of constitutionality.

2. The influence of precedents in court decisions.

3. American procedure is notoriously muscle-bound. The New Deal functioned 18 months before the supreme court took action.

4. Supreme court did not give the full answer concerning the Schechter case.

5. To what extent does supreme court intend to restrict federal control?

6. Our economic system is organized on a national basis. One of two things must happen ultimately: 1. Past decisions will be thrown overboard opening the way to national regulation; 2. Constitutional amendment to the same end.

"HUDDLES" ARE FROWNED UPON BY SUPERVISOR

BY GEORGE HART

Possibly there may be something about being the supervisor from the fifth district, but, anyway—

Supervisor E. C. Talbot, of the fifth district of Riverside county, sat in the chambers of the Orange county board of supervisors yesterday, and looked approvingly upon Supervisor N. E. West, of the fifth district of Orange county.

The supervisor from the fifth district of Orange county was refusing to go into a "huddle" with the rest of the board.

"Now, ain't that something," the supervisor from the fifth district of Riverside county remarked admiringly.

"I did the same damned thing up in our county," he went on proudly. "Yes sir, I busted 'er wide open. They don't do no more huddlin' in our county."

The supervisor from the fifth district of Orange county sat slumped in the big, high-backed, armed chair, a lonely figure at the empty board table. His jaw was thrust out stubbornly. It was his final gesture of a long day of rebellion against his fellows.

"Yes sir," repeated the admiring supervisor from the fifth district of Riverside county, who had come to Santa Ana to purchase Orange county's interest in a tract owned jointly by three counties. "I did just that way up in Riverside. And I sure broke 'em of it."

Supervisor LeRoy Lyon, of the third district, thrust his head in, cautiously around the door of the committee room.

"Coming in, N. E.?" he inquired. "Nope," said the supervisor from the fifth district, satirically. "You don't need me in there."

Lyon grinned and withdrew his head.

"I came on the board this term as a sort of lone wolf," the supervisor from the fifth district of Riverside county was saying. "I'd beat the machine, without any newspaper support or anything; won out, 2 to 1 over a fellow who'd been on the board years and years. And when—"

Chairman John C. Mitchell, of the second district, stood in the doorway of the committee room and looked quizzically at the rebel from the fifth district.

"Better come on in and hear this, N. E.," he invited placatingly.

"Nope," said the supervisor from the fifth district, "you can tell me what you've done, when you come out." He slid farther down in his seat. Chairman Mitchell chuckled and disappeared again in the committee room.

"—And when they tried to get me into a huddle, I said 'not me; this is public business, and we are going to do it right out here in the open,'" said the supervisor from the fifth district of Riverside county. "And that settled that," he added emphatically.

The door of the committee room opened and a chorus of happy supervisory voices came through.

"Hey, N. E. you're wanted on the phone in here; you'll have to come in to answer it. Haw! Haw! Haw!"

The supervisor from the fifth district grinned sheepishly, then a crafty look came into his eyes. He slipped into the other committee room and took the call over an extension telephone.

Editor The Register: Herewith,

A MODERN FABLE—

Once on a time, a young American, age seven years, living, let us say, in Orange County, California. He had two pets. One a Parrot he named Polly Tix and the other a small Bull Pup he called Izzy Bizz.

Polly Tix died on October 4th last and was duly buried by her young master.

The Coroner's O. K. was delivered to "We The People" of said Orange county and officially filed.

A few days later, Izzy Bizz dug up Polly Tix and placed her remains on the back porch of "We The People."

Their delegated servants then proceeded to study the real interpretation and intent of a document, drawn up some years ago, by a few men of some recognized ability, among them being, George Washington, Hamilton, Marshall, Madison, Morris and last but not least our old friend Ben Franklin, and they now find "We The People," can legally bring Polly Tix Back to life and that they in turn will stand sponsors for the future benefits to "We The People," of this Twelve Million Dollar, Plus Obligation, IF ASSUMED.

To the writer this seems contrary to common sense and good law.

The answer, whether Yes or No will be accepted with god grace by,

HOLLYWOOD HAPPENINGS

By DAN THOMAS, Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 11.—They are not always pronounced as spelled—these Hollywood names. No tongue-twisters, particularly, but some give fans constant trouble. And it's very embarrassing to mispronounce the name of a movie star, in his or her presence, at least.

So if you wish to know how these particular celebrities want their names rendered orally, give heed to their own instructions on the subject.

Keep this list handy, and perhaps you can win a bet from the neighbor who insists she knows all the answers.

Despite the fact that a Czech composer named Dvorak became so renowned that it is fashionable to display one's culture by pronouncing his name in the Czech manner, Ann Dvorak prefers having her pronounced as if it were an English name.

So, instead of Dvorak, with a very soft "j," call her simply Dvorak, just as spelled.

It's "Franshow" Tone

Leo Carrillo prefers the Spanish pronunciation of his name, which is, phonetically, Car-reel-yo. It is Charles Boy-a for Charles Boyer.

And Carl Briss-ahn for Carl Brisson.

Franchot Tone pronounces his first name as though spelled Franshow.

Brian Aherne's last name sounds as though it were spelled Uh-herne with the accent on the "herne."

Whatever the derivation of the given name of Bette Davis, it should be pronounced just as if it were simply Betty, and not as Betty or Bettay.

Joan Crawford's first name is pronounced as if spelled Jone—long "o" as in alone.

Vera Engels uses the English pronunciation of Vera. As to her last name, it is Angels with a short "e."

Otto Kruger is pronounced Crewgur, with the accent on the first syllable.

Say it "Col-bear"

Claudette Colbert is Clawdet Col-bear.

Marlene Dietrich is Mahr-lay-nah Dee-trick.

Some Straight Words On The Water Bond Issue

(An Editorial)
BY J. F. BURKE

I believe that certain facts should be emphasized in this campaign that the people are waging against the additional burden of taxation, which is constantly being put upon them by the officials of the county.

There is special need to emphasize these facts, in relation to the water bond proposal, on which the people voted on the 4th of October and which they are forced again to meet, practically without the crossing of a "t" or the dotting of an "i," as they did on that day.

I have necessarily, as editor and publisher of a paper here in the city of Santa Ana, followed the devious course in the developments of this campaign.

I have noted the efforts, put forth by certain ones, to attempt to create in the public mind the idea that the unconscionable amount, which has been retained in the proposed bonds for right of ways, as well as the insistence that there should be no other change in the interest of economy, is due to the fear that the Federal government will not render aid if this economy were introduced.

Once and for all the taxpayers and voters of Orange county should know that there is not one vestige of truth in this claim.

After the bonds were defeated on the 4th of October last, we were assured by Frank Y. McLaughlin, at the head of the Works Progress administration in California, to which institution this money has been allocated for this purpose, that the statements that were being made then by the proponents of the bonds were untrue.

He declared that the money from the Federal government would be forthcoming if any reductions were made in this program and the government would give, in proportion, the same amount of money, in such reduction, as they were proposing on the entire program.

I was instructed, personally, to convey these facts to the people of Orange county in statement, in the clearest and most emphatic form which could be used.

Mr. Hamilton H. Cotton was present with Mr. McLaughlin when these facts were given to the public.

I have pointed out from the beginning, that this money was not under the direction of the engineers, but it had been turned over to the welfare department.

I also pointed out that the only man in actuality, who could take this from us, and that would have to be done arbitrarily, would be the head of the welfare department in this state, Mr. McLaughlin.

And as he is under the advice of Mr. H. H. Cotton and the board of supervisors in this county, he will do so only if he is advised by them to do so.

There has never been a solitary refutation of these facts coming from any authentic source.

To be sure, there has been an attempt, by one or more members of the Board of Supervisors, to convey the idea to the voters, that this money would be lost if changes were made, but they have not dared to, and cannot now, point out any authority for any such declaration.

They have intimated that the government engineers have said that the federal money would not be forthcoming if changes were made in the plan.

There has never been a statement, over the signature of any engineer representing the federal government, of any such fact or alleged fact.

The best that can be adduced is simply an opinion by the federal engineers, in respect to the greater degree of protection that would be afforded, by a dam that was calculated to protect the county from two and a half times the crest flow of the 1916 flood, than would be afforded by a dam that was only prepared for a 20 per cent increase over that crest flow.

Granted, but it is known to every man who has a particle of intelligence upon the subject, that the government engineers are not the men who pass upon the question of whether this money shall be granted by the federal government or whether it shall not.

They simply are expected to pass upon the engineering accuracy and feasibility of any plan.

It is for authorities outside of them to determine whether the money shall be forthcoming.

But the significant thing about the real point at issue in the campaign is not one of the size of the dam at all, nor in a question in which the government engineers are interested to any degree whatever.

In fact, it is a question that would not come before their purview at all.

This is the question of the reduction of nearly two million dollars in the bonds, because of that amount being in excess for the right of ways.

The board of supervisors, Mr. McLaughlin, the engineers and all people who have given the subject any attention, know that this matter of the amount of money, that is being provided for right of ways, does not interest the federal government whatever.

The amount is no part of any contract with the federal government.

The only thing that the federal government insists upon is that the land, upon which the dams are built and the public property established, shall be owned or under complete control of the people.

The only question they ask in that respect is: "Is it provided for?"

No, the refusal by the board of supervisors to act upon the suggestion of their own engineers, in reducing that amount and refusing to follow the advice of 7,000 signers of a petition who asked that the minimum amount be placed in the bonds for voting; their absolute insistence that they shall have nearly two million dollars placed in their hands, without any legal limitation upon them whatsoever that the people could enforce; has been a determination upon their part that is not due in the least particle of respect to the federal government asking them to do it.

They are simply saying to the people of this county:

"You will either turn this money over to us at our discretion or you won't get any opportunity to vote on bonds at all."

As a matter of fact, the people of Orange county and of the particular districts that are represented by these men should say to them, in reply:

"Gentlemen, Orange county does not belong to you.

"It belongs to the people who inhabit it and the taxpayers who own it.

"We have elected you as our representatives.

"You are refusing to carry on as trustees; rather you are attempting to carry on as owners and autocrats.

"We simply demand that you shall resign from your position or we shall recall you and place men in your places who will submit to us, as taxpayers, a proposition upon which we can vote, that is in harmony with good business, with economy, and is calculated to give us the largest measure of protection to our property and means, so that we can work out this problem in the future in the obtaining of additional water."

I predict that the voters will repudiate this dictatorial and autocratic action by an overwhelming vote on the 19th of December.

This editorial is my own. It has neither been prepared nor submitted to any committee or group and is paid for by myself and no one else.

Will Open Bids On South Main Widening Project

CONSTRUCTION MAY START IN THREE WEEKS

Pointing to start of construction work just three weeks hence on widening of South Main street between Fairview and Delhi roads, and similar beginning of two other Orange county projects by the state and federal governments, working together, contractors' bids were to be opened tomorrow and Friday by state officials at Los Angeles.

State officials reported the opened bids all would be in the Sacramento office by Saturday morning and the lowest bidders awarded the contracts immediately. Engineers estimated it would take three weeks, possibly less, for the contractors to get their bonds ready and men in action.

On the South Main street job, which provides for setting three buildings back as a preliminary to the widening, Contractor Jules Markel began work yesterday on cutting seven feet off the front of the C. D. Hayes building, northwest corner of Main and Poona. E. A. Noe was awarded contract to cut two feet off the W.C. Lysle building, near the northwest corner of St. Gertrude and Main, and will start work soon. Two feet will be cut from the H. E. Ludlum building, north of the Hayes building, work to start as soon as the contract is awarded.

Other Projects

The other two projects in the county, to be started about the same time, are a $150,000 to $180,000 underpass at Northern station, just north of Buena Park at the Santa Fe railroad crossing, and a series of street improvements in Orange, near the plaza. Bids on the underpass will be opened tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the assembly room of the state building, Los Angeles. Bids on the other two projects will be opened at the same hour and place on Friday.

The three projects will be completed through state funds and funds set aside by the federal government, $7,500,000 for 39 state highway projects being the federal Works Progress Highways administration allotment to California. The only municipalities in the entire state to get projects submitted in time to qualify for the Works Progress Highways administration program were Santa Ana, Orange, Los Angeles and Glendale, and there are said to be 366 municipalities in the state.

Widening Program

The South Main street widening provides that the section between Fairview and Edinger, now 70 feet wide, shall be widened five feet and the section between Edinger and Delhi road, now 66 feet, widened seven feet, so that an even alignment is effected. The widening is to be on the west side of the thoroughfare. The ultimate "hope" is to have an 80-foot Main street, with an additional widening of the east side. The present project calls for 1.27 miles of widening at estimated cost of $18,182, of which the state is to provide $15,412 from the first quarter-cent gas tax fund. The federal government has specified that 15,000 man-hours of work shall be consumed on the project with minimum wages 60 cents for laborers and $1.25 for plumbers, per hour.

Cost of Program

Cost of cutting back the three buildings will be paid for by the city, $1319 for the Hayes job, $1600 for the Lysle job, Lysle agreeing to pay an additional $284 for added improvement to the front of his building and a figure not yet determined, for the Ludlum building.

The South Main street widening job has been confused by some persons with the South Main street extension—two entirely separate and distinct improvements. The Main street extension provides for a short-cut between San Diego and Los Angeles. The extension, instead of following the highway to Newport Beach, southwest of Santa Ana, will go directly south to the coast highway. The extension, an Orange county-WPA project, is scheduled to start next Monday, from the coast highway end, and eventually will provide a direct route between the coast highway, through Santa Ana, Anaheim, Buena Park, Norwalk and Downey, to connect with Firestone boulevard and Manchester avenue in Los Angeles. The county will furnish 20 per cent of the cost, WPA the remainder.

Pay For Projects

The state and the Works Progress Highways administration are handling and paying for the other three projects. Second of these projects, the underpass at Northern station, is a safety program. Many accidents have occurred there, including one in which E. E. Keech, prominent Santa Ana attorney, was killed some 12 or 15 years ago.

The third state-federal project is that of resurfacing with asphalt-concrete, Glassell avenue between Maple and Almond, in Orange, improving Chapman avenue from the plaza to Orange avenue, and the grading and oiling of a mile of Batavia street at 40-foot width.

Supervisors Sign Pledge to Reduce Tax Rate 10 Cents

In accordance with their promise to a delegation of water campaign leaders, the county supervisors late yesterday issued a formal statement pledging a reduction of 10 cents in the county tax rate next year, if the $6,620,000 flood bond issue is carried at the election December 12.

The statement was issued by four members of the board, Supervisor Willard Smith, of Orange, being absent in New Orleans as a California delegate to the Rivers and Harbors Congress. It was as follows:

"We, the undersigned, members of the board of supervisors of Orange county, subscribe to the following:

"The relief of unemployment in building this project would make it possible for us to reduce our present rate for tax purposes 10 cents on the $100 of valuation."

What's This Feller Grinning For?

Probably figures that Santa Claus is going to put a Sports Suit in his stocking! . . . (the kind that cost $5.95 and $6.95 are in his mind) . . . or, maybe a fine Sports Sweater, close-fitting, button or zipper front, at $2.95 and $3.95 . . . or, Leather Jackets, the fine suede that isn't spotted and that FITS like he wants it to FIT, at $4.95 and $5.95 . . . maybe rabbits hair sox at 50c . . . maybe scores of other things he knows are at Vandermast Downstairs Boytown!

WE HOPE HE'S RIGHT!

Santa Anas Receive Word of Son's Marriage

News of the marriage last Sunday of Miss Ruth Twenhoefer of San Francisco and P. Vernon Schweitzer of Berkeley has been received by the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Schweitzer, 1215 South Main street.

The wedding took place in the home of the bride's uncle, J. C. McQuilkin in Berkeley, with Dr. S. A. Hunter of St. John's Presbyterian church of that city officiating. L. Milton Dodge of San Francisco was best man.

Guests at the wedding included former Santa Anas, the bridegroom's sisters, Mrs. Dan Q. Poin (Frances Schweitzer) of Berkeley and Mrs. Andreas Beyer (Marjorie Schweitzer) of Hayward, who attended with their husbands. The newly-wedded couple have established their home at 320 62nd street, Oakland. Mr. Schweitzer, who was graduated from the University of Southern California in 1925, served as United States vice consul in Brisbane, Australia, for three years. He is associated with the AAA in the north. His bride attended Pomona college with Mrs. Poin. The new Mrs. Schweitzer is continuing her work with the Maryland Casualty company bonding department in San Francisco.

Vernon Schweitzer visited his parents in this city a few weeks ago. Relatives and friends of the Schweitzers were given an opportunity to meet his fiancée when she was a guest in Santa Ana last July.

Many Guests Enjoy First Community Dance

Attended by the success of which its sponsors had dreamed, last night's community dance in the Palm ballroom, 1215 South Main street, was such an enjoyable affair that it proved conclusively that simplicity and a good time may walk hand in hand.

For everything in connection with the party, a civic project of WPA, was conducted with a simplicity that is to be maintained at succeeding events. Everyone was enthusiastic about the musical program, which was furnished by a 12-piece WPA orchestra under the direction of Frank Niemann. The gayest and liveliest of modern dance music was alternated with dreamy waltzes, to the enjoyment of all those present. Comment was made on the excellent rhythm, and the superior quality of the music as a whole.

Guests were received by a host group comprising Mayor and Mrs. F. C. Rowland, Dr. and Mrs. Roy Hurst, Messrs. and Mesdames R. R. Russick, E. M. Sundquist, Plummer Bruns, Burr Shafer and William H. Spurgeon.

Dinner-Contract Club In First Event Since Re-organization

That interesting contract playing group so recently re-organized in the Wade Warner home, 1116 South Ross street, was entertained again Monday night by Mr. and Mrs. B. Bertrand West, 1210 North Ross street, who followed the club's accepted custom of preceding bridge play with a dinner party.

Mrs. West gave recognition to the holiday season by using mounds of brilliant Christmas balls in gold and silver, in combination with scarlet candles and clustered poinsettias. Her mother, Mrs. M. A. Yarnell, and her daughter, Miss Betty West, assumed the pleasant task of serving the dinner menu. The members of the club, Mrs. West, Mrs. Ray Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. James Irvine and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Timmons, were unable to be present, their places were filled by an equal number of special guests, Mrs. M. D. Borgmeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin West, Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Plum, and James Davis, of Piedmont, here for a mid-winter visit in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Irvine.

Club members sharing the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. West, were Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Harris, Mrs. Sara Johnston Haddon, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard G. Swales, Irwin F. Landis and Mr. and Mrs. Wade Warner.

Two Surprise Parties Honor Birthday Celebrant

Two surprise parties this week celebrated the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Charles McIntyre, who was complimented Monday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George McConnell, 1218 Orange avenue, and on Sunday in her home, 1018 West Third street.

Mr. McIntyre had planned Monday night's celebration with assistance of the McConnells. Prizes in bridge were won by Mrs. Charles Morgan and Ellsworth Story, who scored high; Fred Anthon, low. The honoree was showered with gifts. Christmas decorations were in evidence at the refreshment hour.

Present were Messrs. and Mesdames Charles McIntyre, George McConnell, Fred Anthon, Charles Morgan, Ellsworth Story and John Bradley.

Sunday's party for Mrs. McIntyre was given in her home by a group of friends from Long Beach, including Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. McIntyre, Miss Ollie McIntyre and H. D. Fritz. The group provided a noon-day dinner with a decorated birthday cake for the honoree.

Quiet Ceremony Unites Local Young Couple

Silver Acres Community church was scene of a quiet wedding ceremony Sunday, December 8, when Miss Opal T. Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Stewart, and Fred S. Helmick Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Helmick, were united in marriage. Both families live in Santa Ana.

The Rev. Carl Jungkelt read the service at high noon. The bride wore a brown sports suit with a bouquet of white carnations. Her maid of honor, Miss Jean Anderson, was in brown silk with pink sweet peas. Orville Hurd was best man.

Mrs. Carl Jungkelt was at the organ, playing the wedding marches and accompaniment for Mrs. Griggs, who sang solos. A reception in the home of the bride's parents followed the ceremony.

Christmas Bride-elect Is Complimented at Gift Shower

Christmas day wedding plans of Miss Ruth Souder and Raymond Stober, of Long Beach, were suggested last night in the holiday aspect given the home of the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Souder, Mr. and Mrs. George Souder, for a pre-nuptial party and gift shower at which Miss Clara Souder and Mrs. J. Lee Martin were hostesses.

Clustered poinsettias and cotton-wool sprays, flickering red candles and a gaily decorated tree all suggested the season which for the honoree, is to be climaxed by her wedding on Christmas afternoon at 4 o'clock in First M. E. Bridge chapel.

The hostesses had card tables arranged in this colorful setting, and in the session, Miss Carol Smith held high honors and was rewarded with a pretty gift, with another for Miss Lucille Morris as consolation for low score. Miss Ruth Souder was escorted to the Christmas tree, beneath which had been placed an array of gifts for use in her future home.

In the meantime, the hostesses busied themselves in re-arranging card tables with linens and holiday decorations for serving a dessert course.

Arrival of Mr. Stober from Long Beach at the conclusion of the evening, gave party guests opportunity to extend to him their congratulations upon his approaching marriage to Miss Souder, popular member of Delta Sigma Chi sorority.

Mrs. Martin and Miss Souder had as guests in addition to their party honoree, Miss Ruth Souder, Mesdames Lloyd Manderscheid, Jack Smith, Helen Mabe, Austin Krause, Theola Holmes, Roland Krause, Corwin Frazee, James Proctor and daughter, Dorothy Mae, and the Misses Lucille Knowlton, Frances Robert, Lucille Morris, Betty Neidergall, Alice Martin, Carol Smith, Lorene Shippe and Helen Manderscheid.

MIXING BOWL

Go modern this Christmas and substitute for the time-honored cranberry jelly, a cranberry ice. I think I'd do it this way:

Cook 1 cup cranberries to a mush and press through a sieve. Combine with a large cup of thin apple sauce, add lemon juice and sugar until you have flavors right, then freeze, stirring but once. Ten minutes before time to serve the cranberry ice take the pan from the freezing chamber . . . icees with the meat course should be just a firm fudge.

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Dinner
Boiled veal cutlet (1)
Boiled buttered onions, 3 tbsps.
1 small baked potato, with salt and pepper

Grated raw carrot, apple and walnut salad, diet mayonnaise dressing.
Coffee and a very small piece of cake, or 1 cookie.
Calory total, 500.
Cream gravy is added to the family meal, and the family salad is dressed with mayonnaise after the diet portion has been taken from the undressed salad ingredients.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Bean Salad
1 can red kidney beans, rinsed and well drained
1 cup sweet cucumber pickles, chopped
2 crisp celery hearts, cut fine
1 cup walnut meats, chopped
Mayonnaise
Lettuce or cross, and some minced parsley.
Rinse and chill the beans some time before the salad is wanted. Mix them with chopped pickles, cut celery and walnuts. Add carrot, mustard-flavored mayonnaise sparingly and heap the salads on crisp lettuce or cross and sprinkle with minced parsley.
A plate of buttered toast or plenty of hot muffins and jam, with a hot drink will do honor to this whole-meal salad.

Chicken Salad Sandwiches
¾ pound chicken gibles
¾ pounds veal hock or shoulder cut
Bay leaf and onion flavorings
Minced sweet pickle
2 hard boiled eggs, chopped fine
Mayonnaise.
No doubt you've seen trays of chicken gibles and livers at your dealer's. Get a half pound and cook with the onion, seasoning the meats with veal, bay leaf, salt and pepper. Simmer until the meat is ready to fall from the bones. Leave in the broth to cool, then run all solid meat through the coarse food grinder knife, mix with chopped egg, sweet pickle, salt, pepper, and enough mayonnaise to make very moist. Butter thin slices of white or dark bread, put in a leaf of lettuce and a thick layer of the meat filling. Serve as soon as made and see if the family can tell that they are eating anything other than straight chicken sandwiches.

The broth can be used for soups or gravies, or you might ice box part of it and use with gelatin to make an aspic for jellied lamb tongues. By the way, shop for them soon, they are inexpensive, and very grand in a well made aspic, with a cold salad.

Christmas Ball Plans Of Panhellenic Are Near Completion

Although bridge was part of the hospitality which a quintet of hostesses planned for last night's meeting of Panhellenic society in the Doris Kathryn Tea shoppe, it was second in importance to discussion of the annual Student Loan fund benefit dance which this group of Greek letter society women makes one of the outstanding social functions of the holiday season.

Mrs. J. Willis Thompson, Mrs. Clarence Holmes, Miss Evelyn Schieber, Mrs. Gregg Watson and Mrs. Rollin R. Rosselot comprised the hostess group, and had tables in readiness for both contract and auction to complete the evening's program. They had chosen decks of cards as prizes and these were presented Mrs. Harry LeBar and Mrs. Jack Hill, one with high score in contract, and the other in auction.

Mrs. LeBar, Panhellenic president, conducted the business meeting, which was given over largely to dance plans for the night of December 26. Mrs. George Spielman, dance chairman, was ready with her report, as were committee chairmen working under her direction. Mrs. Harry Huffman, ticket chairman, delivered the coveted bits of pasteboard which today go on sale for the function.

An interval was spent in working on the stars in graduated sizes, which are to be the prevailing motif of all decorations that night, used in conjunction with many Christmas trees.

The list of dance patrons and patronesses has been announced also, to comprise Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Nealey, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Henderson, Mrs. Robert Northcross and Mr. and Mrs. John A. Tessmann.

Concluding last night's varied interests, the hostesses re-assembled their guests at the small tables, each with its vivid scarlet candles and other appropriate decorations, and served individual chicken pies and Christmas salads, garnished with tiny candles.

Suburban Home Proves Delightful Setting For Bridge Play

Receiving her contract bridge club members yesterday in her home at Irvine park, Mrs. Joseph B. Irwin suggested the approaching holidays in the decorations of her home, and especially by using glittering little Christmas trees to center the small tables where she served a dessert course.

Tallies used in scoring the afternoon's game results, continued the decorative theme, as did wrappings of the gifts won by Mrs. Quincy Hardy and Miss Inez Davis for first and second high scores.

News Of Orange And Vicinity

PEACE TOPIC AT SESSION OF ORANGE UNION

ORANGE, Dec. 11.—"Peace" was the topic discussed at a meeting of the W. C. T. U. at the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon, with Mrs. Minnie Neville in charge. Mrs. H. L. Sheerer was in charge of the devotional service.

Roll call was answered by short articles from papers and magazines regarding peace and temperance movements. It was brought out that a decided increase in drinking among women has been noted since the repeal of the 18th amendment and that many places formerly occupied by bartenders are now being held by girls under 20 years of age.

The second week in December is being observed throughout the nation as peace day. Mrs. Neville said, in giving a talk based on the selected topic. The only export which has been increased during the depression, she stated, is munitions. She urged that none of those present give any aid to children as Christmas gifts.

The thought of peace held in the minds of all will do much toward bringing about world peace, Mrs. Neville stated. She pointed out that a 197 per cent increase had been made in war equipment in the United States.

In Old New York...

BY GEORGE E. HELMER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SACRAMENTO, Cal., Dec. 11.—(UP)—Unless someone comes forth with new evidence that state officials or employees are violating the penal code by certain mis-handling of state funds, there will be no further prison terms meted out to California's public officials this year.

William B. Shearer, quiet, bearded, elderly ex-cashier of the state treasury, is in Folsom prison facing a term of one to 10 years for embezzling $24,000, for which he took the entire blame.

The Sacramento county grand jury, which indicted Shearer, refused to act on State Treasurer Charles G. Johnson or Fred W. Links, finance department superintendent of accounts, due to lack of evidence or hairline appearance of reputed violations of the penal code.

Since the widespread investigation of state finances started in September, Johnson has been accused, indirectly, of almost everything from mayhem to arson—figuratively speaking. District Attorney Otis Babcock appeared confident that he would be able to pin something on the treasurer. He investigated his personal banking records, questioned deposits which appeared to have totaled $1,500,000 in a period of seven years—meanwhile raising an eyebrow when recalling that the treasurer received only $500,000 yearly in salary—and looked into reports that the treasurer might have benefitted personally through his handling of millions of dollars in state funds.

Failure of the grand jury to go any further with the Johnson investigation technically vindicated the treasurer from indictments and charges. His friends felt he should receive public apologies and complete vindication, but observers were confident that the situation in that direction would be left suspended—with no definite action and no conclusions, but with suspicion lingering in the minds of the skeptical.

In the investigation line, it appears that Assemblyman Leon M. Donihue, head of a special inquiry committee, will have comparatively little more of a sensational nature to disclose.

His committee, meeting here for

NEW OFFICERS SELECTED FOR TRINITY GUILD

ORANGE, Dec. 11.—Officers were elected at a meeting of the Trinity Episcopal guild Tuesday. Mrs. Frank Brown was re-elected president and other officers chosen were Mrs. B. J. Morin, vice-president; Mrs. T. W. Burnette, secretary, and Mrs. Norman Bailey, treasurer. The nominating committee included Mrs. Frances E. Smith and Mrs. J. Alvin Shirley.

Mrs. Bailey was hostess for the afternoon and at the close of the afternoon home made cake was served with tea, with Mrs. Bailey presiding at the tea table, which was centered with chrysanthemums.

Prizes were made for serving supper to the members of the Men's club Monday evening at the Trinity Episcopal church parish hall.

Mrs. Harry Whitman read a paper on "What We Have to Be Thankful For in 1935," written by Bishop Gooden. One new member, Miss Caldwell, was welcomed.

An invitation was extended to members of the guild to attend an annual Christmas party at which Mrs. N. J. Whitney will be hostess, at the parish hall Tuesday at 2:30 p. m.

REPORTS GIVEN AT PASTORS' MEETING

OLIVE, Dec. 11.—Lutheran pastors gathered for their December conference at the parish hall of St. Paul's Lutheran church in Olive Tuesday. In the absence of the secretary, the Rev. A. M. Wynken, of Long Beach, the Rev. Ottomar Tietjen, of Riverside, was elected secretary pro tem.

The Rev. A. C. Bode reported that the Missouri Synod Lutheran church has 51 missionaries in India and 13 workers in China. A missionary will soon be sent to Liberia, Africa. The Rev. Mr. Bode is arranging dates for the showing of motion pictures taken by the committee sent to Africa last spring to investigate the proposed mission field.

President C. A. Snaul of Los Angeles reported on the financial condition of the Southern California district.

Others present were the Revs. William Schmoeck, Santa Ana; H. A. Heisermann, Pomona; E. H. Kreidt, Olive; C. Damschroeder, William A. Theiss and George Jacobsen, San Diego; O. Henkel, Fontana; William J. Lankow, San Bernardino; J. C. Schmidt, San Pedro; Arnold Lankow, Covina; R. B. Tietjen, Monrovia; O. Skov, Hemet; L. Jagels, Escondido; George Theiss, Pasadena; R. Jeske, Whittier; and A. G. Webeking, Orange.

the first time since the wave of investigations started, agreed to pay Donihue's accountant, D. A. Sargent, for the work already done but refused to authorize any further independent audits because of the lack of funds.

The auditing committee had only $5000 for its work, and already has spent $2900, so must be careful of the remainder, members pointed out.

Consequently, the committee's—and Donihue's work henceforth must be confined largely to the questioning of department heads, fiscal officers and state employees. And that is just what Donihue wanted to avoid because he found, after preliminary investigation, that it was somewhat difficult to get a true picture of the situation from some of the state officials and department heads.

Sargent went so far as to testify before the committee that Fred W. Linke had told him it was "poor politics" to make public the fact that audits had been slipped or incomplete or ignored.

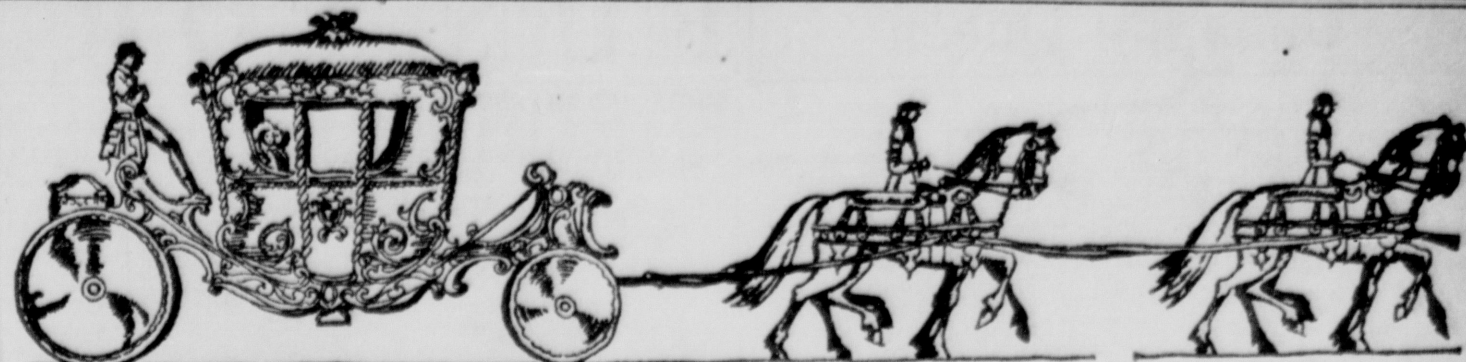

This is the attitude Donihue hoped to circumvent by conducting independent inquiries. Without enough money to pay private accountants, he can do little more of that kind of investigation. And he insists that the public should be informed of irregularities, politics or no politics.

"There is no trouble," Postmaster General James Farley reported here after a "trouble shooting" tour of 23 states.

"It's in the bag," he shouted, in referring to President Roosevelt's possibilities of re-election. "One of the best old proofs of the success of the Roosevelt recovery program is the fact that the panic-stricken industrialists who cried for governmental intervention and help three years ago now feel so strong that they are trying to overthrow the president."

Farley said he had assurances that California democratic leaders, although widely divided over state issues, would line up solidly in support of the national administration when the 1936 campaign gets underway.

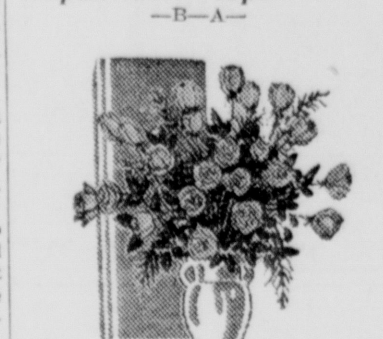

"Roosevelt's majority, not improbably, will be greater than that which brought him to the presidency in 1932," he said.

THE TINYMITES

One of the little elves cried, "Hey, how come you landed here today? No little girls or boys are s'posed to come t' this strange spot."

"We hate to make you youngsters grieve, but we must tell you, now, to leave. There's work that we must run and do, oh, such an awful lot!"

"Just wait a minute, I implore," said Scouty. "We've been here before. We know that this is Santa's home, and he's a busy man."

ACTIVITIES OF REDS DISCLOSED BY SPEAKER CRAIG

People little realize the extent of "Red" activity in the country, and legislators of California are so little cognizant of the astonishing number of people who are engaged in such activity that a bill for protection virtually had to be forced through the last legislative session. Ted Craig, speaker of the house, said in his talk before the Orange county council of American Legion auxiliary at the Legion hall in Hillcrest park Tuesday.

Speaker Craig was the guest speaker of the day. He discussed, besides red activity, the tax situation. He pointed out the dangers in repeal of sales and income taxes and the overcrowded conditions in state hospitals and prisons and insane institutions.

Mrs. Vera Barry, president of the council, introduced the speaker. Reports were made by Irene Ware, of Corona, department bulletin director; by Marjorie Penabody, of La Habra, 21st district president, who announced the Christmas party for Yucca Valley hospital patients Sunday, December 15, at 3 p. m.

Edna Eklund, of Santa Ana, district rehabilitation chairman, made a report; Bessie Pullen, of Costa Mesa, 21st district cooperative sales chairman, and Mrs. V. Burdick, Fullerton, district poppy chairman, also reported, as did Guadalupe Akerman, of Anaheim, district national defense chairman; Marie Kennedy, Seal Beach, district publicity chairman, and Gertrude Cleary, of Tustin, district legislative chairman.

A luncheon was served at noon by Mrs. Bert Swain, president of the Fullerton post, and her committee. The next meeting will be in Anaheim January 14.

ELECT PECK HEAD OF JUNIOR LIONS

Lawrence Peck, was elected president of Metropolitan Den of Junior Lions when that organization met last night at the Doris Kathryn Tea Room.

Other officers elected were: John Schrier, vice president; Willard Minor, secretary; Eric Twist, treasurer; Scotty MacFarlane, tail twister; Chester Cook, Lion tamer; Johnny Smith, historian and Bob McFarlane parliamentary.

The newly elected officers will be installed at a dinner-dance to be held at Doris Kathryn Dec. 27.

SOCIALITE SPARED 300-DAY SENTENCE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 11.—Anita Whitney, one-time San Francisco socialite who refused to pay a $600 fine because it would prevent her from contributing funds to the communist cause, was spared a 300 day jail sentence today by her nephew who paid the fine.

Without explaining his action, Gerritt S. Van Henry, former Berkeley hospital manager, paid the amount to deputy clerk A. Goldman.

Miss Whitney, daughter of a former U. S. Senator and niece of a former U. S. supreme court justice, told Superior Judge Elmer Robinson that she would serve 300 days in jail rather than pay the $600. The alternative sentence was imposed when Miss Whitney was convicted of falsifying election petitions.

Fullerton Man Is Principal in Two Suits Filed Today

John H. Lipe, proprietor of a cleaning establishment at 130 East Commonwealth, Fullerton, was plaintiff in one suit and defendant in another suit, filed today in superior court.

In one action, his wife, Mrs. Nell E. Lipe, sued him for divorce, charging cruelty. Her petition stated that they married in Placencia September 17, 1934, and separated last Friday.

The other suit was filed by Lipe himself, against Virginia Sprague, from whom he leased the cleaning establishment, and whom he accused of converting $1600 of his money to her own use. His suit demands judgment against her for that sum.

Attached to his complaint is a statement indicating that Lipe contends the $1600 represents profits he made under the lease, between September 1, 1934, and December 1, 1935. He claims she converted the funds.

James Edwards Is Called By Death

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the Harrell and Brown chapel for James Edwards, 64, who died yesterday at his home, 935 West Pine street. Mr. Edwards, who had lived in Santa Ana for the past 3 years, is survived by his widow, Mrs. Margaret Edwards, one step-daughter, Mrs. C. C. McCray, Bakersfield, and two step-sons, George McFarland, Santa Ana, and Fred McFarland, of Smith River, Ore.

The Rev. George Warner, pastor of the First Methodist church, will officiate at the funeral and interment will be in Westminster Memorial park.

Cocktail Hour to Be Eliminated By Cafe Operators

After today, 3 o'clock in the afternoon will just be 3 o'clock, or two more hours until quitting time. When the clock strikes three times it will no longer be the signal for business men to tell their secretaries that they "have to go out and see a man for a few minutes."

Today marks the end of "Cocktail Hour" at all cafes where this period has been observed from 3 to 5 p. m. daily, during the period designated as "Cocktail Hour" at the various cafes, reduced rates on beverages were effective. Following a recent conference of cafe operators it was decided to eliminate the bargain period and maintain the same price schedule throughout the day.

MOTHER OF STATE PATROL OFFICER IS CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Augusta Dorothy Meyer, 59, mother of Walter Meyer of the California Highway Patrol, died suddenly this morning of a heart attack. Mrs. Meyer was in an ambulance being rushed to the hospital when she expired.

Mrs. Meyer, who has lived in Orange since 1910, was taken ill last night and an ambulance was called. Her son Walter, was with her in the ambulance when she died.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2:30 p. m. in the chapel of the Gilgoly Funeral home, Orange, with the Rev. R. B. McAlay, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Orange officiating. Entombment will be in Melrose Abbey mausoleum.

Mrs. Meyer who was a native of Germany, came to the United States in 1902. She moved to Orange in 1910 where Mr. Meyer has been engaged in the tailoring business ever since. In addition to her husband, Henry Meyer, she is survived by two sons, Walter, who lived at the family home, 191 North Main street, Orange, and Rudolph Meyer, also of Orange.

CHARGES CHANGED; GIVEN $100 FINE

Escaping the charge that he took an automobile without consent of the owner, Roy Gonzales, 20, Route 4, Box 152, Anaheim, was in county jail today, facing 50 days confinement there on a drunk driving conviction. He was ordered to pay $100 or go to jail for 50 days.

The original complaint was reduced to drunk driving after Gonzales admitted that he took Rex Crosby's automobile from Bob's place on 101 highway on the night of Dec. 1, when he was intoxicated, and drove it to Anaheim, where it was found abandoned. Rudy Ouma, also an Anaheim man and asserted companion of Gonzales on the trip in Crosby's car, in jail on another complaint filed against him after the "borrowed car" incident, will be held to answer for the assertedly stolen ride.

BEACH MAN HURT IN CRASH IN FOG

State Traffic Officer Harry Wilde was called to Huntington Beach boulevard, half a mile south of Smetzer avenue, at 9:30 a. m. today to investigate a head-on collision in which John Foster, 55, of Huntington Beach, was injured. Extent of Foster's injuries were undetermined.

The accident resulted when a dense fog blinded the drivers, according to the officer's report. The drivers were reported as Allen D. Keller of Compton and Robert Jenkins of Wintersburg. The cars were considerably damaged.

Investigates Noise Near Chicken Coop; Taken to Hospital

Hearing several suspicious cackles from the neighborhood of his chicken house at 10 o'clock last night, Frank Ford, of Rural Route 3, Anaheim, stuck his head through the doorway. Later he woke up to the fact he had been hit a "tremendous wallop" on the head by an unidentified man. He was escorted to the county hospital for emergency treatment, officers said.

A search was being made today for a chicken-hungry man with a Babe Ruth hitting stance.

Carpenters Vote To Support School Bonds Tomorrow

The Santa Ana carpenters' union No. 1815 in a meeting held last night at 402 West Fourth street voted unanimously in favor of the school bonds to be voted on here tomorrow and also voted favorably on the water bonds. It was announced today although the latter vote was not unanimous.

Approximately 45 members of the union were present at the meeting which was in charge of Edward Beaudette, president.

Court Notes

The late Jesse A. Armitage, Sunset Beach civic leader, who died October 11, left an estate valued at $5000, consisting of real estate, it was shown today when his will was filed for probate in superior court. His widow, Coda Armitage, son, Harry, and daughter, Adele Hankey, were named as heirs.

The walking record for the trip from New York to San Francisco was made by Abraham L. Monteverde, of Mays Landing, N. J., in 1929. The record was 79 days, 10 hours, and 10 minutes for the 3415 miles covered.

Spends Short Time In Jail on An Old Complaint By Wife

"Hi!" Duncan, 38 year old Negro of Route 4, Santa Ana, paid one of his briefest "official" visits to the jail today, when he was brought there on an old arrest warrant, by Deputy Sheriff Merle Dean.

An hour and 40 minutes after being booked, Duncan, who, the warrant said, was wanted for petty theft—of his wife's automobile—was ordered released on his own recognizance.

TOWN MEETING SOURCE OF TRUE AMERICANISM

True Americanism is action of people motivated by vision and can be revived along with the courage needed by a return to the old town meeting where problems of industry, society and government may be openly discussed.

In the past, during the period designated as "Cocktail Hour" at the various cafes, reduced rates on beverages were effective. Following a recent conference of cafe operators it was decided to eliminate the bargain period and maintain the same price schedule throughout the day.

Introducing the speaker was Mrs. Albert Launer, who was introduced by Mrs. S. W. Douglas, chairman of the evening. Mrs. Harold Nielsen played a group of organ numbers preceding the talk.

Miss Morgan declared there are two kinds of Americanism today, a pseudo type of flag raising and waving, and a real spirit that began with the pioneers who founded the country, lovers of freedom.

She brought to her audience an outline of the lives and qualities of great American leaders, beginning with George Washington who, she said, "was chosen for character and vision and who did not force the constitution on the people but let them think through the needs."

A return to the vital and conscientious study of problems from the standpoint of industry, of society and government, with an adjustment to the machine age, less profit at the top and less hours for labor, should finally bring the country out of the depression she indicated.

The Globe theater players will present two plays at the March open meeting, it was announced.

MINISTERS WARNED OF CONFIDENCE MAN

Methodist Episcopal ministers of Orange county were today warned in a police teletype message from Sheriff E. W. Biscailuz, of Los Angeles county, to be on guard against a "confidence" man who has been mulcting ministers of this particular faith in other parts of the state.

An "all point" message received at Sheriff Logan Jackson's office over the teletype named Paul Davis, alias Bob Evans, 36, who is alleged to have defrauded Methodist ministers at Santa Cruz and certain Los Angeles county cities.

The man's method, said the message, is to gain admission to the minister's home, through misrepresentation, get the minister's confidence, and subsequently get his money.

Davis, alias Evans, is described as five feet, ten inches tall, weighing 150 pounds. He has dark, straight hair and dark eyes.

GRAND JURY SEEKS ACTION IN SLAYING

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 11.—(UP)—The Hennepin county grand jury stepped suddenly into the Walter Liggett case today and demanded action to "tear the lid off" conditions which permitted assassination of the crusading editor.

The jury demanded that a special prosecutor—his identity kept secret—be named to conduct the investigation.

A public subscription of approximately $150,000 would be asked to finance the inquiry. The jury indicated it believed citizens of Minneapolis were keenly interested in exterminating vice and would make public donations for the investigation.

Working with the jury would be a corps of investigators. Identity of these men also would be secret. Reports of their findings would go only to the grand jury.

Members Inducted By Lathrop Hi-Y

Three new members were inducted into the Julia Lathrop Junior High School Hi-Y club when that organization met last night at the Y. M. C. A.

New members who were taken into the club were Don Hamaker, Paul Cleary and Antoine Desutter.

Officers of the club taking part in the impressive ceremony were Eugene Hamaker, president; Don Dunnig, service chairman; Al Springmeyer, vice president; Ben Byland, treasurer; Brent Wahlberg, secretary; Stanley Beiser, councilman and John Cleary, world service chairman.

Following the business meeting all members of the club took a swim in the Y. M. C. A. pool and refreshments were served.

AVOCADOS STOLEN

Avocado thieves made a "haul" from the orchard of W. H. Heil, Bushard road and Huntington Beach boulevard, he informed the sheriff's office today. The theft occurred Monday night. Deputies Harvey Gulick and Ives Brown of the sheriff's farm theft detail are investigating.

DESK SERGEANT SERIOUSLY ILL

The genial B. F. Frank Lutz, desk sergeant at the city police station, is setting something of a record for himself this week, merely by remaining home, staying in bed and feeling mighty uncomfortable.

Frank is ill with such a severe cold that it is a near approach to pneumonia—and not since he joined the force on May 23, 1922, almost 14 years ago, has he had sick leave, except for an appendix operation. Monday, he informed his fellow officers that it would be best to have someone work in his place.

The only other time Frank took time off for medical treatment was 10 years ago when he walked into a hospital and asked the "docs" to take out his appendix.

Frank, who lives with his family at 1224 Valencia street, felt better yesterday but today said he wasn't "feeling so good." J. P. McWilliams, one of the night desk sergeants, is sitting in on Lutz's day time shifts, while Officer Paul Cozad is "subbing" for McWilliams. Fellow officers visited Lutz today.

REQUIRES NEW PLAN MUSIC BROADCAST

A special meeting of the retail division of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce will be held tomorrow morning to consider new plans for broadcast of music and programs in connection with the observance of the Christmas shopping season. It was announced today by Secretary Howard I. Wood.

Carl Stein, chairman of the music committee, and E. L. Spencer, manager of KREZ, conferred with Wood this morning on a new plan, which will be discussed at the meeting tomorrow.

Because of the rapid sale of new radios for Christmas, it appears to be impossible to secure enough radios to cover the downtown district in broadcast of the musical programs, and therefore a new plan must be worked out, it was stated.

MRS. A. E. WEBSTER IS CALLED BY DEATH

Mrs. Alwilda Ella Webster, 79, widow of the late J. R. Webster, died yesterday at her home, 308 South Main street, Santa Ana. She had been a resident of the city for the past 15 years. Funeral services will be announced later by Smith and Tuthill.

Mrs. Webster, who was a member of the Santa Ana Woman's club, is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Phoebe Simpson of Santa Ana, one son, Ross Webster, Toronto, Can., and a granddaughter, Alwilda Simpson of this city.

"Deity of Jesus" Is Discussed By Dr. H. C. Morrison

Dr. Henry C. Morrison, president of Asbury college and editor of the Pentecostal Herald, of Louisville, Ky., continued his series of sermons at the Spurgeon Methodist church by speaking last night on "The Deity of Jesus."

He quoted tributes that had been paid to Jesus by such men as Renan, John Stuart Mills, Lecky and other great men, who did not belong to the orthodox faith. He also quoted from some of the great Christian thinkers of all ages.

He then proceeded to show the necessity of allowing Jesus, who Himself ought to know most about His own personality, tell who He really was.

Dr. Morrison used, as the basis of his sermon, the challenge of the men of His day, as recorded in Matt. 22:42, "What think ye of Christ? Whose son is He?"

At the close of his appeal, several men and women came forward to accept the challenge of the preacher.

The meetings will continue throughout the week, every day at 10 a. m. and each evening at 7:30. His closing messages will be given on Sunday morning and evening. There will be no services on Saturday.

BULLERS GET CONTENTS OF VILE PACKAGES

Speaking last night at the monthly dinner meeting of the Orange County Builders' Exchange, Arnold Praeger, consulting counsel for the Biddle Trades bureau of Los Angeles, explained the meaning of the social and unemployment insurance acts.

He said that, in his opinion, the social security act, as adopted by the state, is a good thing but that it is doubtful if the courts will sustain its constitutionality. He pointed out that there are several points on which the state and federal laws regarding social security clash.

During his talk he advised all employers to prepare their books, as required under the new law, immediately. He pointed out that it is probable that next year federal officers may demand these books to obtain data as to whether or not men eligible for benefits were actually on the employment rolls.

Last night's meeting, held at James cafe, was the annual Christmas party for members and a turkey dinner was served. Charles W. Pittner, president of the California State Builders' Exchange, attended the meeting and spoke briefly, praising the local organization for its progress during the past year.

New officers and directors of the exchange were introduced and plans made for their induction into office at the annual meeting of the chamber. The annual meeting and "Ladies' Night" will be held January 14, in the American Legion hall, at Orange. Dancing and cards will follow the dinner and business meeting.

New officers introduced last night were: J. W. MacFarlane, president; H. H. Schuette, first vice president; Donald B. Kirby, second vice president; E. W. Matthei, treasurer and Franklyn E. Smith, secretary-manager.

BONDS ENDORSED BY S. A. V. I. DIRECTORS

Directors of the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company, meeting this morning, went on record as unanimously endorsing the flood control bonds to be voted on December 19, 1935. The meeting was held in the Orange offices of the company.

PETITIONS FOR KUCHEL RECALL LACK 212 NAMES

Petitions filed with the county clerk asking the recall of Justice Charles Kuchel, of Anaheim, were found to be 212 names short of the required 1244 signatures necessary to the calling of a recall election, Clerk J. M. Backs announced today.

Backs, who reported that 1034 signatures to the petitions were "good," said that the petitioners would have ten days more in which to circulate and file supplemental petitions, to gain the required 212 names.

The petitions asking Justice Kuchel's recall on the ground of alleged incompetence, were filed with Backs last week, carrying 1034 signatures. Of these, however, 272 were found not to be qualified voters of Anaheim township. Backs said. The petitioners asked the supervisors to fix a date for a recall election. They were filed by Louis Heffner, of Anaheim.

Postmaster Harwood in a statement on regulations covering Christmas mailing, stressed the importance of mailing packages for the east and other points, as soon as possible. "The rush has already started," he said, "and which already has been employed it will be difficult to handle the mail if Santa Anans wait until the last minute to send remembrances through the mail."

Giving a list of "Don't" and "Do's" as they apply to Christmas mailing Postmaster Harwood said: Don't Address packages on both sides. Put Christmas seals over folds of the paper as when the folds are sealed the package becomes first-class mail.

Put Christmas seals on face of packages to be sent to foreign countries. Include messages in packages. His instructions on the things that must be done follow:

Do Pack well. Glassware must be packed with a double corrugated wrapper and containers of liquids should be packed in sawdust or cotton before being wrapped or addressed.

Photographs should be placed in regular photograph containers and wrapped in corrugated cartons. Picture frames or other articles with brass fronts should be enclosed in light wood containers.

Walters must be packed in heavy, well-sewed burlap sacks with an address tag on each ear of the sack.

All packages must be wrapped in heavy paper and tied with heavy twine.

All addresses should be written on one side of the package only with the return address in the upper left-hand corner.

Postmaster Harwood said that, starting Saturday night parcel post and stamp windows at the postoffice will remain open until 6 p. m. Saturday. Regular hours will be maintained through the week.

Federal Agency Requests Offices In New City Hall

Asking office space in the new city hall, The United States Department of Agriculture, soil conservation division, filed a letter with City Clerk Ed Vegely today. Charles W. Pettit, district head with offices in Santa Paula, wrote that Orange county now has a WPA soil conservation project near El Toro, and the government for use.

"I have been informed there is space available for use," he declared. The federal group probably will establish themselves on the third floor of the new municipal building.

Woman Sentenced On Drunk Charge

Emilia Rios, 48-year-old Indian woman, of Anaheim, who, reports show, has paid frequent visits to the county jail and who was released only Monday after serving six months for drinking intoxicants too freely and frequently, was back in again today.

Arrested by Santa Ana police soon after her release from the jail, Mrs. Rios was adjudged "drunk again," and sentenced in City Judge J. G. Mitchell's court to "return to jail and serve 30 days more."

Caught a fish—the first of her life. And, with Scott's car, she had rolled it. One night they had pitched their blankets out under the stars. It was quiet and lovely.

"Did you ever know of anything so ridiculous?" Mrs. Cameron had asked vehemently. Answering her own question, she had snapped viciously, "I never did."

Later she had exclaimed, "A fish!" with such biting scorn in her voice that neither Aunt Ellen nor Nancy had ventured to protest.

In the privacy of her own room Aunt Ellen had smiled. It was nice that Dana was not one of those girls who required artificial excitement to make them happy.

The honeymoon was destined to end abruptly because one of Scott's all-too-few patients had become "drunk again." They returned to the city. "Just one of the disadvantages of being a doctor's wife," Scott told Dana.

"I think it's dreadful for wives to interfere with their husbands' professions," Dana said with youthful fervor. "I promise you I won't."

PRIZES TO BE PROVIDED FOR LIGHTED TREES

First plans for Santa Ana's living outdoor Christmas tree contest were revealed today following an annual dinner meeting of Edison Women's committee last night in the home of Miss Theresa Marie Nussbaum, Garden Grove.

It was decided to award two prizes in each of two classifications as follows: residential trees 12 feet tall and over; trees under 12 feet in height. Since judging of the decorated trees will take place the night of December 23, all entries must be reported to the Edison Women's committee before 5 o'clock of that day.

Dollar contributions earned by each member during the past several weeks were turned in, with proceeds to be used for Christmas charity. Miss Thelma Jane Leonard won the prize for the most original way of earning her quota.

Miss Leonard, chairman of the benevolence committee, was assisted by Theresa Nussbaum and Irene Drott on last night's committee. Mrs. Katherine Nussbaum served chicken dinner to the group. Eight new members were initiated.

Exchange of gifts was a feature of the party. A box of candy had been sent in by R. E. Bacon, division manager of Orange county. Anne Glotzbach won a prize in a guessing contest.

Announcement was made that the January meeting will be in charge of the safety and first aid committee. Ruth Wood, Josephine Holson and Dorothy Rose Young.

ARREST THREE FOR THEFT OF RABBITS

Arrested by Deputy Sheriffs Walter Duncan and Ezra Stanley, of the farm theft detail, who made the investigation, Arthur Golaz, 23, Frank Caballero, 30, and a 17-year-old youth were in the county jail today on the charge of stealing rabbits from the property of Mrs. Magdalena Vasquez of Atwood.

The men and youth were arrested late yesterday, following the theft, assertedly committed Saturday night. All were residents of 120 South Balcorn street, Fullerton.

Caballero was sentenced to 10 days, Golaz held for trial and the boy turned over to juvenile authorities. Charge against the men was petty theft.

REBOOKED ON U. S. IMMIGRATION COUNT

Following completion of a county jail term for an asserted federal liquor act offense, Constantino Cervantes, 27, who had been brought here by a United States deputy marshal, was rebooked today for violation of the federal immigration act.

Cervantes, who said he was a plumber or "and not a writer," gave his birthplace as Mexico, admitting he was without passport. His possessions consisted of one pair of scissors, a traveling bag and $11.20 in Mexican money.

Woman Sentenced On Drunk Charge

Emilia Rios, 48-year-old Indian woman, of Anaheim, who, reports show, has paid frequent visits to the county jail and who was released only Monday after serving six months for drinking intoxicants too freely and frequently, was back in again today.

Arrested by Santa Ana police soon after her release from the jail, Mrs. Rios was adjudged "drunk again," and sentenced in City Judge J. G. Mitchell's court to "return to jail and serve 30 days more."

Permit Granted For Dance Hall

Following approval by the city council, a permit was granted Leon Eckles, orchestra leader, today by city officials, to conduct dances at his new dance hall, "The Palms," Third and Ross streets. Approval also was given by the Lions, Kiwanis, 20-30, El Toro and Business and Professional Women's clubs, it being understood Eckles' plan was to help provide jobs for numerous Santa Ana musicians who might need a job.

With All My Love

Behind the paneling would be a roll-away bed. Back of the door would be a small, gloomy, box-like kitchen. There was an enameled breakfast set in the alcove. The furniture was upholstered in a dull mulberry shade. Obviously the woodwork and floors had been recently "done over." Everything looked shiny and new.

Scott charged. "I found I could rent the old house for enough to take this apartment. It was about an even exchange. I rather liked the old house, but it isn't very convenient. And, after all, you're the one who'll be spending most of the time at home."

So Scott had rented that darling old house with its mulberry, ivory paneling and lovely old things for this—this place! Because of the electric ice box, because it would be warm this winter and easy to keep. So much easier than the rambling, picturesque cottage. He'd given up his home to make her comfortable.

Dana, her head against his shoulder, whispered: "It was dear of you to think of it—it's going to be so good. That's what I thought." Scott agreed contentedly. "It has all the conveniences. Hot water every minute. Electric ice box. Three exposures."

"How long is the lease?" Dana asked.

"For a year." Dana said. "A year would pass before she knew it. She wouldn't begin by letting material things matter. It was the spirit of it that counted. Scott's thinking of her before himself. Wanting to please her. So awfully proud of himself for being able to present her with this brand-new-looking and convenient apartment. 'It's a darling place,' Dana said. (To Be Continued)

GARLOCK'S SERVICE TROUNCES SCOTTIE'S

Garlock's Service contributed a real upset in Commercial League basketball ranks by trouncing the champion Scottie's Maltis, 44-33, at the Y. M. C. A. last night, but it did not count in the standings. The regular league contest between the clubs was postponed because "Chuck" Denio, Garlock forward, suffered a broken rib in the Woodlawn Mills game.

The score: Garlock's (44) P. (38) Scottie's Herren (33) P. (32) McManus Garlock (4) P. (8) Schwarm Acacia (4) P. (8) Wheeler S. Beal (6) P. (4) Fullerton D. Beal (2) P. (4) Levens Substitutes: Garlock's—Lockhart (4), Harriet (2), Eastman. Scottie's—Maltis—Clark (2).

THE WATER BONDS

Probably there is no one in Orange County who has given any thought to our water problem who will not say, unhesitatingly, that we need more water, that our water supply is being exhausted.

The only question on which there is a difference of opinion is the method to be used in getting the most water we can for the money we can afford to pay. The more water we can get for the least expenditure on the part of Orange County property owners, the better position we are in to compete in producing varied products of the soil with other sections of the country producing similar products, and the more wealth our producers can and will bring into the community.

A water plan is now before the voters which its advocates contend will conserve, on the average, some 40,000 acre feet a year and give complete flood protection for any rainfall that might occur in the next thousand years. The plan will cost Orange County, in round figures, five or six million dollars.

Its opponents contend that it will not conserve 40,000 acre feet; that practically the same amount of water could be conserved with expenditure of two or three millions less, and still provide flood protection in any flood of which we have a record, with 25 per cent additional protection.

Advocates, favoring the bonds, deny there could be adequate protection in the modified plan and say that if we do not now vote the bonds and have the Federal Government help pay the project bill, cost to Orange County will be much greater than any saving that might result from construction of a smaller dam. Advocates contend this election is not a question of how cheaply these conservation projects can be built and be practical but whether Orange County will again have an opportunity of 50 per cent help from the Federal Government: That it is not a question of whether the Supervisors have submitted the most practical and economical plan but whether Orange County later will be obliged to pay the entire cost if the Federal Government does not continue its policy of handing out billions of dollars for "made work." If the Government's policy is continued, it would give Orange County still another opportunity to vote, later, on a more economical plan.

There is no question but that this water project is much more practical and needed than many other projects on which the Federal Government is donating hundreds of millions of dollars.

While the principle of the Federal Government in handing out money for local projects is fundamentally wrong and eventually will bankrupt the country if continued, as long as the principle is followed, Orange County wants all it can get provided it gets more for what it spends of its own money than it could get if spent alone.

If people, through their Federal office holders, pursue a policy which will eventually wreck our credit and destroy the value of our money, the voters of Orange County cannot help it. The more assets Orange County gets out of the Federal "pot," the better will be its relative position.

Again, advocates of the bond issue contend that, if there is to be wild inflation, now is the time for us to borrow all the money we can and put into real wealth—water—and later pay off the bonds with money of lesser value. They point out that, if we have inflation like Germany had, a large part of the bonds might be paid off with a very few boxes of oranges.

It would seem that, if you believe the Federal Government will continue its policy of handing out money for local projects and you do not believe there will be serious inflation, it would be wise to vote against the bonds and allow a less expensive plan to be brought up for vote. If, however, you believe the Federal Government is about to quit its "handing out" policy and that there will be wild inflation soon, it would seem Orange County can get more water for the money expended through voting for the present proposed plan than through waiting and voting for a reduced plan, the projecting of which Orange County would have to pay all.

It is a complicated problem. It is not a question of trying to embarrass or criticize anyone, or of accusing anyone of taking a selfish view on the question. It is a question of the least cost in oranges and other products which she will be producing to exchange for each unit of water.

We're all acquainted with people who could catch sleeping sickness and we'd never know the difference.

BEST ROOTER OF 1935

Now that the football season is virtually over, we award our own special prize to the Best Rooter of 1935. The citation goes to one Mike Mesko, lunchwagon chef of Rahway, N. J.

At the Princeton-Dartmouth game, when the going became rough for Dartmouth (final score, Princeton, 26; Dartmouth, 6), Mike was greatly alarmed. He favored Dartmouth.

"I saw they were taking a pretty rough shellacking," he explains, "and I wanted to help them."

Thereupon he leaped lightly from the stand into the field, trotted across the grid and lined up on the Dartmouth side.

Dartmouth was so bewildered it didn't notice Mike until a play had been completed. Then both teams tackled Mesko and tossed him back into his seat. But Mike didn't mind. He had shown he was ready to die for dear old Dartmouth.

We like the story. Football has become so much of a ceremonial for "rooters" who couldn't carry a ball unless it was in a satchel, who go to games for the ride and the liquor, who buy tickets for business friends just to help clinch a sale and whose major interest is a $5 bet that we are proud to honor Mike. The game meant something to him, something blazingly important, and if his great love made him a little ridiculous—well, that has happened to other heroes, too.

Sayings Of Will Rogers

I have made the trip from coast to coast by air a hundred times, but I never saw such mobs at the fields as on a recent trip. Rudy Vallee was on our ship. I was just as excited as the crowds were.

And say, he is a very modest, likable young fellow. I was even flattered when the folks at Amarillo thought I was his father.

I was in Oklahoma City and my old friend, Bill Murray, liked to talk to me all night. He is sure a smart old bird. He knows more about things than anyone I ever saw.

Out on the Rogers ranch at Oolagah, where I spent a day lately, Herb McSpadden my nephew had to take a milk stool and beat an old cow over the rear end. She was hoarding her milk. A Jewish farmer at Claremore named Morris Haas had five hundred dollars in bills in a barrel of bran, and a cow ate it up. This hoarding don't pay.

Flying to Berlin to see the country that there has been so much talk about saving.

I can't see the difference nowadays when a country has been saved and when it hasn't.

Day By Day In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1935)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—Railroad labor organizations, often referred to as the aristocracy of the American workers, have broken with John L. Lewis and taken up the cudgels for William Green of the American Federation of Labor.

Through an editorial today in the weekly periodical published here called "Labor," which is the official organ of the standard railroad organizations of the country, Mr. Lewis is bluntly told that he is hurting the cause of workmen rather than helping it. The article further discloses a little known story to the effect that the Guffey coal law might have been killed by the craft unions, but that they stepped aside to help the mine workers.

The editorial policy of "Labor" is determined by a committee from three groups of officers of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Association of Machinists, the railroad telegraphers, the switchmen's unions, and the maintenance of way employees.

"President Lewis of the United Mine Workers," says the editorial, "should cease sniping at the American labor movement. His tactics delight the National Association of Manufacturers and other enemies of the workers, but no one else. If Mr. Lewis has any surplus ammunition he should use it on the foes of labor, not on its friends."

"Mr. Lewis would have us believe that industrial unionism—that is, one union for all employees in each industry—is the salvation of the American workers. There is nothing in the record of the last 50 years to sustain that claim."

"Mr. Lewis' own union, the United Mine Workers, is an industrial union and it has had the advantage of Mr. Lewis' leadership for 15 or 16 years. Surely, if industrial unionism is a panacea for the ills that beset American workers, then Mr. Lewis' union will furnish a shining example."

"But less than three years ago the United Mine Workers were practically 'on the rocks.' It was saved by the labor provisions of the NRA, and those labor provisions were adopted by congress at the suggestion of Labor and the railroad brotherhoods."

"In other words, after it had been buffeted by the depression for three years, Mr. Lewis' industrial union was saved by the craft unions which had succeeded in holding their ranks intact during the most trying period in our country's history."

"When the NRA collapsed, Mr. Lewis asked for the enactment of the Guffey act which insures to his members the right of collective bargaining in the coal industry. Many of the craft unions felt the proposal, as Mr. Lewis drafted it, was unjust to them. Had they pressed their opposition they could have defeated the legislation. Instead, they stepped aside and urged congress to go to the rescue of the mine workers."

"Such generous conduct would seem to merit gratitude, but, instead, Mr. Lewis is going up and down the land proclaiming that the American Federation of Labor is 'too slow' for him, and that it must change its policies to conform to his ideas."

"Of course, the American labor movement will do no such thing. It will continue in the future, as in the past, to formulate its programs in an orderly way in conventions called for that purpose. Attempts to coerce it will not be effective."

"Labor is not condemning industrial unionism, and it is not exalting craft unionism. For years both systems have operated harmoniously within the ranks of the labor movement. The workers have used either system, or a combination of both, as the exigencies of a particular situation seemed to require."

"There is no reason why that policy should not continue, and it will continue if Mr. Lewis will kindly 'check his guns at the door' and endeavor to remember that when he enters a convention of the American labor movement he is 'just another trade unionist,' free to present his views with all the vigor he possesses, but clearly obligated to do nothing which will jeopardize the common good."

"If Mr. Lewis continues his sniping he will undoubtedly annoy the American labor movement, but in the end he will be the chief sufferer. Unfortunately, the United Mine Workers may also be seriously damaged."

"Labor regrets that it is compelled to comment on Mr. Lewis' conduct in this blunt fashion, but when an individual, or a group of individuals, pursues a course calculated to impede the progress of the American labor movement the time for soft words has passed."

"The foregoing spirited attack is an interesting illustration of how a group of craft unions, conceded to be among America's most powerful, are beginning to view the internecine warfare initiated by Mr. Lewis. It may mean that, when the Guffey bill is declared invalid by the Supreme court, as seems inevitable, opposition to an amended law instead of support may be forth coming from the craft unions."

THE VOICE OF THE YARD ENGINE

I see them shiny, fancy trains
That rumble to and fro
Across the mountains and the plains—
They're always on the go.
I wish I might go places, too,
Gosh! how I'd like to roam
As big and fast expresses do,
But I must stay near home,
And rumble up and down the track,
Just there and back, and there and back.

I'm stained with soot, I'm red with rust;
As I move on my way
I'm followed by a cloud of dust
That trails me night and day,
And little children, passing by,
When I appear,
Dash madly toward the tracks and cry:
"The old yard-engine's here,
When she comes by we'll stand aside,
And ask the brakeman for a ride."

I ain't no ninety-mile express,
I'm young and swift no more;
But I have brought real happiness
To children by the score;
When I bump-bump above the ties
A swarm of kids I see,
And hear delighted little cries
And that's enough for me.
And that, dear reader, should be true
Of every one, including you.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

THE TEMPTATION TO DEMAGOGY

The 1936 campaign will offer alike to the Democrats and to the Republicans greater temptations to demagoguery than any campaign has offered for a generation.

It matters not how sincere the leadership promoting it, a program of easy money flowing out to vast numbers of voters has vast demagogic power locked up in it. Such a program puts a severe strain upon its administrators from several angles.

It is asking a good deal of the administrators of such a program to junk it dramatically, even when the futility of some of its parts becomes evident, if the junking would have to be done in a campaign year with almost sure political loss as a result.

And the temptation upon its administrators to damn all its critics as socially callous, hard hearted, selfish enemies of the people is very powerful.

It is so easy to drift into that sort of indictment.

I suspect that, on sober second thought, the President would be glad to recall his description of critics of the New Deal as habitues of well warmed and well stocked clubs who would like to advise him on how to let the needy starve. I suppose every club has in it an occasional cultivated moron who might answer to that rather savage description, but obviously it would be hard to find any normal semi-intelligent American in any party whose attitude comes within gunshot of this description.

But the temptation to this sort of outburst is so much a part of the situation that even such traces of demagoguery across a sincere effort can be understood even if deplored.

We shall see quite as deplorable tactics from other quarters. We shall hear what many of us honestly regard as "mistaken doctrines" branded as sinister revolutionary moves.

What a magnificent contribution to the national future could be made if the administration and the opposition would now resolve to resist these subtle and powerful temptations to demagoguery.

The vast masses of us want the 1936 campaign to be an utterly sincere search for the policies that will again make the economic life of the United States a going concern on the American basis of private enterprise and political liberty.

And we see our political parties, not as ends in themselves, but only as means to this major end. (Copyright McClure Newspr. N.Y.)

WHAT PREPARATION?

"What shall we do with the children? Is there any sense in teaching them trades, crafts, professions, fitting them for something they may never need? Perhaps unfitting them for future? The statistics point to overfilled professions and the Unions are overcrowded with skilled workers. What shall we do with the children so as to prepare them for the future?"

When was the future certain? Many of us live on the assumption that it was, but we discovered, just as other generations had done, that there was no ground for assumption. Life was still the grand adventure, still the uncertain road that it had always been. Yet we have lived and enjoyed it, each according to his ability. Some of us have a strong talent for living, some none at all, most of us enough to get by pleasantly enough. Our lot has not been such a hard one all things considered. Why imagine that it will be worse for the children? I believe it will be better.

How are they to be prepared? First, train them to health. Get them to know that a healthy body is the first essential to successful living. Then along with that idea, the other one—a healthy mind. Teach them to dislike wrong thinking such as shows itself in greed, envy, selfishness beyond healthy limits. Teach them to protect their minds against the infection of evil thoughts. This done, they have a fine start for life in any era.

The quality that counts most for success in life is character. It is wrong to think of those who have piled up vast riches as happy successful people unless one knows that these people are truly happy. Happiness is the measure of successful living, and until one gets that measure one knows nothing of the matter. Stevenson said that one must be able to live at peace with oneself, be friends with oneself, in order to be happy, or successful, and he knew.

Give each child all the education he can take. I believe education should be full and free to all who ask for it. Teach each child some form of useful work. By useful I mean that it will make the worker happy and benefit his neighbors at the same time. People will always need beauty, health, the labor of men's hands, the leadership of trained minds. People will always have hunger of one sort. Train the children then to be ready to satisfy such hunger in themselves and in others.

We are going to need scientists, doctors, teachers, machinists, builders, artists, workers of all sorts, all we can train and more. Find the special power of each child and train him accordingly. Use each child's gifts to bless each child and each child's family.

Work is the salvation of the race. I believe that the children now in the schools will have plenty of work to do, will have more freedom in doing it, therefore more joy. They will have a better choice of lifework and get more personal growth and happiness out of it than the workers who prepared the way for them. That is what all our preparation is for, really: To make clear the way for those who come after us. Life goes on with ever increasing joy, ever deepening beauty. There is no cause for doubting the happiness of the children in its development. (Copyright, 1935, The Bell Syn., Inc.)
